SAYS STATES WILL UPHOLD ITS RIGHTS

American Govt. Has Sent Note to Carranza; Will Not Recede

Washington, June 20.—The American note, flatly rejecting Gen. Carranza's demand for the withdrawal of United States troops from Mexico and rebuking the Carranza government for the discourteous tone and temper of its last communication, was handed to-day to Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador-designate.

Long continued outrages against Americans and their property, both in Mexico and on American soil, are reviewed in the note, and warning is given that the troops will be kept in Mexico until such a time as the de facto government performs the duty which the United States has not sought, of pursuing the bandits who ought to be arrested and punished by the Mexican government. It concludes with the statement that if the de facto government should continue to ignore this obligation and carries out its threat to defend its territory by an appeal to arms against the American troops, the gravest consequences would follow.

Will Maintain Rights.
"While this government would deeply regret such a result," the note says, "it cannot recede from its settled determination to maintain its natural rights and to perform its full duty in preventing further invasions of the territory of the United States and in removing the peril which Americans along the international border have borne so long with patience and forbearance."

"I am reluctant to be forced to the conclusion which might be drawn from the circumstances," Secretary Lansing declares in the communication, "that the de facto government, in spite of the designs of Villa and his followers, did not and does not now intend or desire that these outlaws should be captured, destroyed or dispersed by American troops or at the request of this government by Mexican troops."

Wilson's Purpose.

In the last Mexican note, are announced in the following language:

"If a denial is needed that this government has had ulterior and improper motives in its diplomatic representations or has countenanced the activities of American sympathizers and the American press opposed to the de facto government, I am glad most emphatically to deny it. It is, however, a matter of common knowledge that the Mexican press has been more active than the press in the United States in endeavoring to inflame the two peoples against each other and to force the two countries into hostilities."

Attack Planned.
Washington, June 20.—In the face of a multitude of reports indicating seething war spirit throughout Mexico, the United States' emphatic refusal to withdraw Brig-Gen. Pershing's expeditionary force was to be communicated officially to Gen. Carranza to-day.

Whether the result will mean war depends on the Mexicans, and Gen. Carranza is so informed. Citizens of both nations apparently are preparing for it. Gen. Carranza in another speech at Mexico City, however, has expressed the hope that hostilities may be avoided.

Mexican government troops were reported last night marching on Del Rio, 100 miles up the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, with the intention of attacking.

ELK RIVER STILL RISING AT FERNE

G. N. R. Bridge at Oleson Collapsed; Other Damage Done by Floods

Ferne, June 20.—The weather has cleared again after an all night rain and the water in the Elk river still is rising, having added more than a foot since last night at dark.

The Oleson bridge of the Great Northern railway has given away and the bridge at Homer has been cut off by a change in the river channel so that the train service on the Great Northern has been cut off. A washout of the track of the C. P. R. near Sparwood has stopped freight trains on that road but the regular trains are transferring at that point.

The Elk river has changed its channel above town and a large body of water now flowing past the Fernie Lumber Company's mill is endangering the mill and all the houses near. The change in the current also is throwing more water into the north end of Fernie annex. No abatement in the flood is yet apparent here.

It is reported that the railway bridge over Bull river on the Kootenay Central has been moved out of line and several washouts have obstructed traffic on that line, which will not be resumed for several days.

The Ross-Saskatchewan Lumber Company's mill is flooded and damage of $20,000 is reported to the company's property. All the people living in the houses at the mill have moved to higher ground. Eureka, Montana, on a branch of the Kootenay river, is reported under water and the Eureka Lumber Company also is sustaining severe loss.

Most of the houses in West Ferne are surrounded with water and the sidewalks are afloat. In the Fernie Annex the school yard is flooded and many houses have had to be abandoned until the water recedes.

In Natal, near Michel, much damage is being sustained and urgent calls are being made to Government Agent Hewitt for assistance in fighting the floods. So far no loss of life has been reported and it is hoped that to-night will see the highest of the flood.

LLOYD GEORGE'S PLAN OPPOSED IN CABINET

London Times Says There is Division Regarding Irish Settlement

London, June 20.—The negotiations for a provisional settlement of the Irish situation, which appear to have made hopeful progress in Ireland, have provided an acute development in the cabinet, according to the "Times."

"A section of the cabinet," says the "Times," "must be recognized as utterly opposed to the proposal put forward by Mr. David Lloyd George on behalf of the government. Divergence of opinion was first apparent a week ago, but it has come to a head in the past few days. Informal meetings of the Unionist ministers took place yesterday and will be resumed to-day. Under an agreement can be reached, the government is likely to meet parliament this afternoon in a state of profound difference of opinion on what is the cardinal feature of its immediate policy. In this case resignations may follow."

"The opposition to the government's policy is headed by Rt. Hon. Walter Hume Long, president of the local government board, and the movement is directed to suggesting that the cabinet as a whole is not responsible for the Irish scheme. This would virtually mean repudiation of Mr. Asquith's authority and a nullification of all the efforts he has made in Ireland."

C. P. R. BRIDGE OVER LEMON CREEK COLLAPSED

Flood Grows Worse at Nelson; Train Services Interfered With

Nelson, June 20.—The steel bridge at Lemon creek, on the Canadian Pacific Nelson-Slocan line, has gone out, the work gangs sent out Sunday and Monday having failed to save it. The Slocan line promises to be tied up most of this week. The Kaslo and Slocan railway still is inoperative owing to numerous washouts at various points on the line. Trains through the Crow's Nest have been held up by a big mud slide just east of Cranbrook and no passengers came through last night.

The water at Nelson rose fifteen inches during the past twenty-four hours. It is now over sixteen feet above low water mark. The weather is turning cooler.

Heart's Action Was Weak And Circulation Poor

He Was Always Tired and Nervous and Had Pains in Feet and Legs—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Cured

The heart is a wonderful worker, plodding away year in and year out, forever pumping the blood through the body. So long as the blood is rich and nourishing it runs its own waste and keeps up a vigorous circulation of the blood through the arteries and veins of the human system.

But when the blood gets thin the nerves are starved, motive power is lacking, the heart's action weakens and the circulation is slow. The hands and feet feel cold, there are cramps and pains in the legs and through the body. Digestion fails, you become nervous and irritable and do not rest or sleep well.

This letter will give you some idea how admirably Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is suited to overcome derangements of this nature. It is, above all, a creator of new, rich blood, and with the blood in good condition the nerves are soon restored and bodily organs resume their natural functions.

Mrs. E. A. Hutchings, "Fraser View," Elva, Man., writes: "Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my husband had tried almost every remedy with cold feet, poor circulation of the blood and was always tired. He had pains in his feet and legs, and could get no rest or sleep at night. After the first box of the Nerve Food we could see an improvement, and now after using it for six months, he is an entirely different man. He eats and sleeps well and has no pains in his feet and legs. It has built up his health wonderfully, and we can recommend it as a splendid nerve tonic."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edman, son, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BACK TO RUSSIA THROUGH GERMANY

Russians in France Will Not Return by Sea, Says
Colonel

London, June 20.—H. Warner Allen, representative of the British press with the French army, in a dispatch refers to the Russians who landed at Marseilles and now are at Camp Matilly. The Russian troops, says Mr. Allen, have come to France by sea, but their way back home lies through Germany.

Mr. Allen's article follows:
"I told my men," said Colonel Netcholodov, commanding the first regiment, who was kind enough to show me round his soldiers' quarters, "after our interminable voyage that it was possible to bring troops such an enormous distance to fight, but that for nothing in the world would I consent to their being taken back by sea. We are going to fight our way back to Russia by land. The men were delighted at the idea."

At first glance the Camp de Matilly may differ not at all from any ordinary camp—commodious wooden huts ranged in orderly lines, muddy open spaces and all the bustle of camp life. But then the eye falls on the regimental colors, carefully folded and sheathed to protect them from the rain, standing in the centre of the huts allotted to the regiment, with a gray uniformed sentinel standing beside them motionless as a statue.

Their Comradeship.
"Good day, sentinel!" said the colonel as he passed. In stentorian tones the sentinel replies, at the salute: "At your service, your excellency! All is well! Nothing is more typical of the Russian spirit than the relations between officers and men. They are patriarchal, or rather paternal, in their similarity. Wherever the colonel goes he calls out his greeting, and the men reply in hearty unison. A private may be 50 or so yards away, and the same formality takes place. When the men are grouped together, whether they be 10, 20, or the whole regiment, their reply to the colonel's salutation is shouted out, as by one man, with a vigorous sincerity that tells both of devotion and discipline.

Unless special orders are given, each sentinel must report to his commanding officer every time he passes, and in the huts, after the chorus of salutation has subsided, the colonel has replied to the men's salute, a non-commissioned officer comes forward and makes his report. The Russians attach great importance to these formalities.

"Our men," said the colonel, "are quite happy so long as we wish them good day, but if we pass them by un-noticed they at once conclude that they have done something wrong, and to ignore them is a recognized sign of disapproval."

Well Drilled.
The Russian soldier's uniform continues Mr. Allen, is practical, simple and admirably adapted for modern war. The men, one and all, are well built and admirably drilled and disciplined. They come from all parts of Russia. For instance, in this one regiment, were men from Irkutsk, in Southern Siberia, from Brest Litovsk, on the border of Russian Poland, and from the Caucasus. No special selection, the officers stated.

MAN KILLED IN AUTO
CRASH NEAR LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, June 20.—Donald Raeburn, an employee of the American Film Company at Santa Barbara, aged 35, a former Los Angeles newspaper reporter, was killed on the state highway near here early to-day, when an automobile in which he was riding with George L. Sargeant, a film director of the same firm, crashed against a telegraph pole. Sargeant was thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped with some slight injuries. The men had been attending a show here and had started back to Santa Barbara.

FRENCH STRAIGHTENED LINE IN ARGONNE

Description of Interesting Incident That Got One Line in Communique

London, June 20.—One of those little everyday occurrences on the French front which occupy one line of the official communique, is described in a dispatch by H. Warner Allen, representing the British press with the French army. Writing from the forest of the Argonne, Mr. Allen says:

It was a question of straightening out the line, of driving out the Germans from a point of vantage, and the whole affair took place in ground which had been torn to pieces not only by shells, but also by mine explosions. We arrived towards the end of the operation. The ground had been prepared by a preliminary bombardment which the artillery officers proudly declared was a model of its kind. The infantry officers said the whole thing was infantile in its simplicity; the artillery had wrecked the German defences; then the infantry had come out and carried the position. The official communique gave the whole affair just one line.

A Contrast.
Our party scrambled up the steep hillside as quickly as we could, following a path through the forest which seemed as lonely and peaceful as though there was no war. The call of the cuckoo echoed impudently through the noise of the guns, and a tiny wren was perched at the edge of the communication trench which we had entered as soon as we had left the shelter of the ravine. From the observation post the contrast was an extraordinary one. We had left the woods of great trees, green with spring foliage; we had left the ground where enemies, violets, and all the spring flowers were in bloom. Before our eyes there lay a white, naked hill, where a few sorry trunks and stems, as bare as broomsticks, took the place of the trees they once had been, and where all green things and all flowers had disappeared.

How many shells that hill had received during months of fighting no man can say. It suffices to know that their holes touch one another across its whole expanse; as the French say, it is riddled like an escabeot (strainer). In the sunlight one looks out on a map of the moon, for the shadow of each shell hole is mysterious and black, throwing into vivid contrast the white ridges that lie between. Here and there the even pattern of the shell craters is cut by a white line, the line of the trenches, and from time to time this line is cut by huge circular excavations, the craters of mines. It was round one of these mine craters that the day's fight had taken place.

Organization.
The particular crater was on the right of the white ridge in front of us, some 500 yards away, and on one of its edges we could see French soldiers hard at work digging and piling up sandbags to defend the captured positions. As for the Germans, they were a few yards behind, and the green woods that one could discern behind the crest, still unharmed by shell fire, were full of Germans.

As a preliminary to the operation the men had been withdrawn from the advanced trenches at the point where the assault was to be made, for the opposing lines were only nine or ten yards apart, and the best artillery in the world cannot be accurate within so small a limit. The evacuation accomplished, 250 six-inch shells were neatly thrown on to the coveted point of the German lines. These shells, it was reckoned, would be more than sufficient to demolish all the German shelters and machine guns. Meantime the 75's opened a feu de barrage to left and right of the position, so that no help could come from either side and the enemy might be discouraged from an attack on the evacuated trenches. The guns did their work and when the storm of six-inch shells had finished the French had thrown aside their weapons of offence and were working to strengthen their position.

Enemy Idle.
Up in the observation post we watched the Frenchmen working at their sandbags. Each moment the bank of sandbags grew higher, and we knew that as the bank rose the trench behind was deepening. At last it became clear that for the moment at any rate, the enemy had decided to sit down. It may have been that at the moment all his ammunition was needed for the wild attempt that was being made against Verdun—a few miles farther east, and of which we could hear the distant bombardment.

TO EXCLUDE GERMANS FROM POST-WAR TRADE

Establishment of System of Banks in Allied Countries Discussed

London, June 20.—Although the London morning papers all deny reports of the organization of a new international banking house with an initial capital of £10,000,000, aiming under the supervision of the government to assist British traders and manufacturers to secure a big share of trade with the allied countries after the war, it appears that tentative plans for some such organization are being discussed in high financial quarters. It is felt that a great bank of this type, co-operating with similar institutions in France, Italy and Russia, would enable British traders to participate, to the exclusion of the Germans, in the enormous work of restoring and rebuilding the ravaged portions of Europe.

REPRESENT COMOX

Candidate Addressed Executive of Comox Central Liberal Association at Cumberland

Courtenay, June 20.—At an executive meeting of the Comox Central Association in the K. of P. hall, in Cumberland, the president, Alex. Urquhart, in the chair, the election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, hon. president; H. C. Brewster, hon. first vice-president; Alex. Urquhart, hon. second vice-president; Jos. Shaw, of Cumberland; president; William Lawrence, of Bevan, vice-president; Mr. Turner, of Powell River, second vice-president; P. L. Anderson, of Courtenay, secretary; A. B. Ball, of Comox, treasurer.

General business was the order of the evening. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand with some outstanding dues to collect, which will be paid at the next meeting.

Hugh Stewart, at the conclusion of the business of the evening, addressed the large audience on the general issues of the forthcoming campaign, and in his usual plain outspoken style told the many people present that while he was sure of election as M. P. for Comox, they must all work in harness together to secure an overwhelming majority.

After an interval for refreshments Joseph Shaw, the new president, took the chair and pointed out that although the association had grown greatly in the past it had never before been in such a thriving condition.

TWO WERE DROWNED IN BURRARD INLET

Robert Griffith and Stewart Burton
Lost Lives When Dinghy Upset.

Vancouver, June 20.—Robert Griffith, aged 40, and Stewart Burton, aged 22, the former an electrician and the latter a former sawyer at the Fraser Mills, New Westminster, were drowned in the north arm of Burrard Inlet, opposite Point Beautiful, near the B. C. E. R. power plant, on Sunday afternoon, when a dinghy which they had entered in tow of the gasoline launch Pearl B., upset, throwing them into the water. With seven other companions they had chartered the launch, which is owned and was captained by H. B. Bird, 215 Oxford street, and were proceeding on their way to Wigwam Inn, Indian River. They had been in the cabin of the boat with their companions a few minutes previous to the fatality. As the dinghy was tied to the launch with a stout cable they apparently thought they would take no risk by entering the smaller boat and more for a lark than anything else, apparently, they did so.

There were no eye witnesses to the tragic incident, but it would appear that the boat in tow, set off its balance by becoming dragged so rapidly in the water at the end of a taut line, upset when they stepped into it. When the companions of Griffith and Burton came on deck again they noticed that the dinghy was more than half full of water, and looking back they saw Griffith and Burton struggling in the water about half a mile astern. Captain Bird turned the launch around and made for them at full speed, but they sank before they could be reached. Futile efforts were made by their companions and other searchers to recover the bodies. Both men resided in South Vancouver.

Other members of the party were: Cyril McLeod, 344 Robson street; H. H. Smith, 1947 Quebec street; D. D. McComaghe and W. F. Fleming, Great Northern hotel; C. Hill, 67 Hastings street east; C. A. Taylor, 702 Seventh avenue west.

FRENCH PAPERS ON THE MEXICAN CRISIS

Paris, June 20.—France and Britain can follow only one policy in Mexico—that is to support any action the United States government thinks wise to take in the hope that it will obtain the support of one of the Mexican factions, and thus facilitate the pacification of the country. This was the gist of the editorial comment in the Paris papers to-day on the Mexican situation, which seems to be nearing a crisis.

The Echo de Paris says:
"Mr. Wilson's first mistake was to expect gratitude from Carranza. It was a bigger mistake to overlook Mexican hostility to the United States, and the impossibility of a weak policy crushing such a feeling. Mr. Wilson can not accept a blow in the face from Carranza after humiliating Kaiser Wilhelm."

BODY OF AMERICAN
FOUND IN RIO GRANDE

Brownsville, Tex., June 20.—The body of William Brown, brother of Mayor Albert Brown, of this city, was found in the Rio Grande river on the Mexican side, ten miles south of Matamoros to-day. Brown is said to have been seen last in Matamoros on Saturday afternoon. He is believed to have been murdered.

RUSSIANS PRESS ON BEYOND CZERNOWITZ
Taking Advantage of Capture of City; 3,000 Prisoners Taken

Petrograd, June 20.—The official statement issued last night said:
"In the region of Korytnitzky, south-east of Swiniouki, south of Lokatch, one of our valiant regiments launched a counter-attack and put the enemy to flight. Meanwhile a section of our light batteries posted in a wood in advance, shelled the fugitives point blank. We took in this action three officers, 100 men and four machine-guns. East of Boresoff, south of Swiniouki, we seized, after a desperate resistance, a wood near the village of Bojoff, taking a thousand prisoners and four machine-guns."
"During attacks in the region of the southern edge of Radziviloff the enemy received our troops with jets of liquid fire. We captured in this region yesterday 1,800 prisoners."
"Our troops, having occupied Czernowitz and crossed the Pruth at many places, are advancing energetically toward the Sereth river, being established by the occupation of the bridgehead at Czernowitz."
"General Lechnitzky took prisoners 49 officers and more than 1,500 men, and captured near the town 10 guns. In the course of the pursuit of the enemy we took prisoners near the village of Koutchourmare 400 men and captured two heavy guns, two gun carriages, numerous caissons full of ammunition and some 1,000 wagons loaded with provisions and forage."
"Near Sterozynetz we took two officers and 80 men prisoners and captured some machine guns."
"The total prisoners taken in the course of the day amounted to nearly 3,000."

The Canadian Patent Office

—Recognizing Something New

Has Granted a Patent, Both on the Form of Flake and Process of Manufacture of

New Post Toasties

This remarkable recognition—no other corn flake on the market has achieved it—marks this new food as something distinctly different from "corn flakes" of the past.

What is This Difference?

Compare New Post Toasties with the average corn flake—observe the tiny bubbles which cover their surface. These bubbles are caused by a new method of cooking, rolling and toasting under quick, intense heat.

By this process the true corn flavor is developed in all its sweetness. Eaten dry they are a delicious morsel. With cream or milk they are a revelation to the taste. Note the "substance" of New Post Toasties. Unlike old-style "corn flakes" they do not break or "chaff" in the package. They do not mush down under milk or cream. They are wonderfully delicious.

And they come to you direct from the giant ovens of our great Toastie Factories, untouched by human hand and triply sealed in a moisture-proof container which preserves their fresh Golden Goodness for your table.

THE RUSSIAN LEAVEN.

The Petrograd war office report on Sunday night identified German reinforcements on the Volhynian front as recent arrivals from the west. At the same time the French official communication reported the presence of recruits of the class of 1917 among the German troops in the Verdun region. Thus the Russian leaven has begun to work; the unescapable logic of the military situation has begun to assert itself. If Germany desires to lend substantial aid to her ally she must dispatch reinforcements from the western front, filling their places with youths of seventeen and old men of the landwehr. If, on the other hand, she decides that she cannot afford to risk an appreciable weakening in the quality of her effective forces in France and Flanders she is confronted with the probable collapse of the dual monarchy, the intervention of Roumania, the detachment of Hungary, the capitulation of Bulgaria and Turkey, the onrush of the allies from the south and the abandonment of the Prussian ship by Saxony and Bavaria. Just as Hungary might forsake the Austrian ship. One horn of the dilemma is as bad as the other in the final result, although one is sharper and penetrates more quickly than its counterpart.

But while Germany may have sent a few divisions from the western front to the help of Austria the Russian advance has not yet reached the point where an immediate decision becomes imperative. That moment will come when it is finally and definitely disclosed that Austria-Hungary cannot recover from the present blow, when, probably, Russian armies force their way through the Carpathians to the Great Plains of Hungary or are on the eve of doing so. We have not reached that stage yet, but if the progress of the Russian forces in Bukovina continues at its present rate we shall hear of them threatening the southern passes before many days have sped. The Austrian army which evacuated Czernowitz is compelled to retreat southward some seventy miles, after which it will turn westward along the Roumanian frontier. The Russians in pursuit already have reached the Sereth river, about twenty miles south of Czernowitz, and will make an energetic attempt to cut the fugitives off.

The strategy underlying Brusiloff's campaign is easily apparent. With ample play for his two wings, thanks to the wide breaches caused by his initial smash, he is trying to envelop the Austrian forces just as the Teutons attempted to envelop the Russian last summer. There is greater scope for manoeuvring in Volhynia than in Bukovina—where before long he must be confronted by the Carpathians—especially if he should capture Kovel and force the Dug river. This would expose Lemberg itself to envelopment from the northwest and threaten the security of the Teutonic centre, which has been putting up a stiff fight ninety miles east of the Galician capital. In this connection, however, it is apparent that the Russians are attempting no more than to hold the Austrian centre where it is. Whatever they expect to achieve must be done by their unanchored, freely-operating wings.

The French press expects the Germans to make their most frantic effort to rush the defences of Verdun within a few days. This is certain to happen; it is an inevitable as was Germany's futile blow at the Marne, and it is dictated by exigencies which while similar are much more pressing than those which governed the campaign against France in 1914. It will be the Hun's last try for Verdun, in the possession of which he thinks he sees an avenue of escape from the trap in which he has snared himself. It will fall, for France is ready for it, and its failure, we believe, will be the signal for a powerful allied counter-attack from the North Sea to Switzerland.

Between the struggle at Verdun and the Russian advance the war is being hurried to its inevitable end—the collapse of German military power—more rapidly than the most optimistic last winter imagined could be possible.

LETTING IN THE LIGHT.

From the pen of Maximilian Harden, editor of the Zukunft, the German people are being enlightened on the origin of the war. Harden has been examining the documentary evidence with minute thoroughness. His conclusion, fortified by his knowledge of the Prussian system and the men at the head of it, is that Germany is responsible for the war. With him to reach a conclusion on a great issue is to publish it with telling force and candor regardless of consequences. He harks back to the Agadir incident in 1911 and shows how Germany sent a warship to the Moroccan port to "protect German subjects" where none was there. He meets the parrot German cry of this war being "forced upon us" by pointing out that it was not until five days after the Kaiser acted with the assertion that "the sword was forced into my hand" that Austria, in whose behalf ostensibly Germany was moving, broke with all the allies save Serbia. He declares, very truly, that the world rejects Germany's pretensions of non-aggression and non-responsibility. He lauds Sir Edward Grey's moderation and patience, his sincere and earnest efforts to avert the calamity, and insists that Granville, Salisbury, Gladstone or Lansdowne would have declared war without hesitation. "were the strongest military power on the Belgian coast in the possession of a pistol which it could aim at Britain's heart."

Harden says further that Sir Edward Goschen, the British ambassador at Berlin, after asking for his passports, made a final appeal to the German chancellor "against all precedent," a vain appeal which gave rise to the famous "scrap of paper" interview. Harden finally declares that the mass of the German people do not "want ruthless submarine warfare," which is futile in any case, as futile as the statements that peace proposals must be based upon the retention of territory held by German troops. Needless to say, Harden's journal, perhaps the most widely read publication in Germany, was promptly suppressed, but not before a number of copies had reached the outside world. As far as known, no action has been taken against the editor. That would be extremely dangerous for Harden is the highest explosive Germany has. He is credited with possessing more inside information concerning the Potsdam clique than any other person in the empire. A few years ago he showed how much he knew by exposing the corruption and immorality of the high-placed members of the court-martialed surrounding the throne. He was prosecuted for slander and sentenced to imprisonment in a fortress, but in his defence proved the charges to the hilt, with the result that some lofty personages in William's entourage became social outcasts. The junkers, therefore, have good reason to fear him, and fearing him they leave him strictly alone. From Harden, Liebknecht, Vorwaerts and other fearless investigators and interpreters of facts, the German people are learning the truth about the war.

THE PREMIER'S TOUR.

According to the government press, Mr. Bowers's election tour so far has been simply one triumph after another, marked by an unrivalled series of enthusiastic demonstrations in his honor. As a matter of fact, it has been the most frigid experience of his political career. This is particularly true of his trip up the island. At Duncan and Nanaimo he was received with about the same degree of warmth that would mark the reception of the collector of an oppressive, highly-unpopular tax. Even officers of the party organization and members of executive committees found it inconvenient to be on hand to receive him.

Of course the funeral nature of Mr. Bowers's island tour may have been due to a misconception, or at least to uncertainty, concerning the particular guise in which he came—whether as Premier of the province or head of the industrial legal firm of Bowers, Reid & Wallbridge. It is very difficult to fix the boundary lines between the two personalities; the lightning speed with which the two Bowers change places deceives the quickness of the eye. Thus constituents up the island in seeking concessions might discover too late that they had been petitioning the chief of the firm of Bowers, Reid & Wallbridge; others addressing him as the head of the legal firm and requiring advice on the shortest route to the favor of the government might find that they had been talking to the Premier of the province. Still, even this complexity is more apparent than real. There is only one Bowers after all—the two Dromotus rolled into one. We are nearing mid-summer, but Mr. Bowers will have to wear a heavy overcoat throughout his entire tour.

A student of Napoleonic literature, he will be struck by the analogy between his expedition and the memorable retreat of his great prototype from Moscow. The reception, he will receive from the settlers along the Skeena and the Grand Trunk Pacific will suggest the warmth and enthusiasm with which the Muscovites and the weather greeted Napoleon at Smolensk and on the Niemen. We can imagine the victims of the magnificent land policy expressed in the Premier's historic, sententious phrase, "Let the speculator have his chance," climbing to the tree tops in their anxiety to catch a first glimpse of the statesman to whom they owe so much. But what a reception, indeed, he would have had if the speculators themselves were on the scene! What a tumultuous welcome he would have received if those numberless stakes driven into the most accessible lands could speak or if the firm of Bowers, Reid & Wallbridge had been able to marshal their land-speculating clients and station them at strategic points as enthusiastic generators! As it is, however, Mr. Bowers will meet very few electors on this tour apart from the provincial police-men and other officials of the government who must present themselves as a matter of duty.

A TRIBUTE FROM CLEMENCEAU.

It is said that Clemenceau, French statesman and editor whose patriotism is as a flame of fire, at one time was not altogether satisfied with the part Great Britain was playing in the war. He even was reported to have attacked Britain so viciously in his journal, L'Homme Enchaîné, that the edition containing the criticism had in the interests of allied harmony to be suppressed by the French censors. If that is true, Clemenceau has been converted, as he now declares:

"One renders thanks to the English fleet because it was able, without stirring, without firing a gun shot, to annihilate the German menace, to block the enemy, to assure supplies for our armies. It is true, though silent, its mounting guard is none the less full of grandeur. But the English miracle is not there. The English miracle has not been wrought at sea. Dreadnoughts, cruisers, torpedo-boats! Well, it is all only the English tradition. But what has made the ancient Northern island soar in the esteem and admiration of mankind is that she has, for the first time in her thousand years of history, ceased to be an island, ceased to think and act as a mere island. She has embodied herself into the continent by her fine, handsome men—who have heroically held the line in the trenches of Flanders, by their short pipes in their teeth, by her guns and her convoys, and, above all, the high serenity with which she has accepted, on our ancient soil, a destiny of pain and bitter struggle."

"Yes, that is splendid, because it is not at all the work of an hour, but the inevitable conclusion of a history of ten centuries. Other nations have, on these epic battlefields of Europe, shed more blood than England. Others have had to develop a more desperate heroism before the onrush of the barbarians. But no nation has resolved, with more method of decision, to go on to the very end of the task. No nation has experienced so complete a metamorphosis in its manners, in the exercise of its rights and its claims to be independent."

The Montreal Mail says Sir Sam Hughes's story of his interview with Earl Kitchener relative to the Ypres salient is fiction. Of course it is—on the face of it. And in this respect it is in the same class with Sir Sam's account of his interview with Earl Roberts—told just after Roberts died. In that story the Field Marshal was alleged by the modest narrator to have told him that he (Hughes) was the "greatest driving force in the British empire" and that what he had achieved in the first few months of this struggle was "unparalleled in the annals of war." The Toronto Star aptly points out that Sir Sam Hughes always seizes upon the death of some distinguished soldier as an occasion to attribute to him a fine eulogy of himself. Moderately worded it might carry conviction, for dead men tell no tales. But Hughes lacks judgment and responsibility when talking about himself and always spoils the story by embellishing it too extravagantly. In his latest outbreak, however, he seems to have overlooked the fact that in trying to glorify himself he slandered the dead Kitchener, an offence which even the most rabid melogomania cannot excuse.

The city council is in possession of a very interesting document relating to the "biggest paving contract ever awarded by any city." But now that it has the instrument the board hardly knows what to do with it. The public interests should be the sole arbiter in the matter. If the ratepayers have been betrayed by those entrusted with the safeguarding of their affairs, the names of the betrayers should be published if for no other consideration than as a protection in the future against unfaithful and unjust stewards. If persons accused are unjustly charged, they should be given an opportunity to purge themselves of the alleged offences.

Whenever we read of the stilted antics of Sir Sam Hughes—whether it be some fool utterance or the promotion of a brother or cousin or other relative to a major generalship—we fervently thank heaven that the British and French military authorities have taken mighty good care that he should not have any post of responsibility on the battlefield. And we also feel grateful indeed that this war found Canada with the Duke of Connaught, a trained experienced soldier, and Chief of Staff Gwatkin, at Ottawa.

Sir Sam Hughes, noted for the modesty of his views regarding his capabilities, virtually intimated that the great and irredeemable error in the great war was made when he was not created generalissimo of the allied forces. But for that one oversight, due to ignorance and prejudice, the war would have been over and Bloody Wilhelm a captive of Sir Sam's longbow and spear months ago. Sir Robert Borden must be responsible, and the people of Canada will ask what he is going to do about it.

A contemporary publishes an article on Germany's opinion of Austria. The time, however, has not come for Germany to express her real opinion of her once illustrious ally. She has stopped "strafing" all other nations, but presently she will saddle Austria with responsibility not only for the war but for the untoward result of it. Wilhelm is not dispatching congratulations to Francis Joseph on "victory after victory."

The United States is reported on the brink of war with Mexico. My! What will Bryan say? Perhaps he will fervently exhort the mothers of the republic to sing, "I Did Not Raise My Boy To Be A Soldier."

It looks as though the incendiary agents of Kultur, lately so busy blowing up ships, shops, trains and people in the United States, have transferred their activities to Mexico.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The sealing schooner Otto, Capt. McLeod, arrived in the harbor at 1 o'clock this afternoon, 169 days from Halifax. No incident occurred till she entered the harbor here, when she ran on the Sleeper Rocks, slipping off later on a high tide with the aid of a tug. The Otto picked up a Patagonian boy in the Straits of Magellan. Ex-Senator J. C. Carson, wife and daughter, of Portland, arrived from the east a few days ago and leave for home by the City of Kingston to-night. The annual meeting of the school trustees will be held at the city hall on Monday, commencing at 11 a.m.

INSPECTION OF LOTS

BEGAN THIS MORNING. Civic Court of Revision Commences Tedious Task of Personal Visitation. The civic court of revision, after hearing Dr. Garesche this morning, decided to commence immediately the inspection of properties laid over from the various sessions for a personal visit.

Thereupon they started the tedious work, in company with the assessors, and will continue it at an opportunity when the task is completed. This does not indicate that the last opportunity has gone by for personal audience of appellants, but the hope is that after hearing the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway cases to-morrow that there will not be any interruptions to the effort to confirm outstanding assessments.

The official list of properties to be visited, with the localities, is as follows: Government, from Cormorant to Orchard; Johnson, from Douglas to Blanshard; Johnson, from Government street westerly; Yates street, Government street westerly; Store street; Pandora avenue; Chancery lane; Douglas street, from Fort to Burdett; Langley, Yates to Bastion; Humboldt; Douglas to Blanshard; Alder street and Yew street; waterfront lots, from Laurel point to Chemical Works; Montreal street, both sides; Lot 167, View and Broad—Broad streets; Baker's brickfields, N. Douglas street; Stanley Ave. and neighboring streets; Finsgar and Cormorant streets, east of Blanshard; Engels' lots on Granite and Amphion streets; Landsberg's lots on Montreal avenue; lots in section 6, Belleville and Elliott, Belleville and Douglas, and Douglas and Elliott; lots 1a, 1, 2 and 3 of Lime-Bay; Section 31; corner lots along Blanshard and Pandora streets; 424, 425, corner of Broad and Johnson streets; "Leight's" Mill site; Peare's and Dumbarton's properties; lots 16121 A, and properties opposite Bridgman's.

It is expected that when the properties are all inspected, a date will be announced for the confirmation of the assessments. Then those owners who are dissatisfied with the decisions can appeal within the limit set out in the statute.

Victoria Business Girls' Club.—The club picnic which was planned to take place at the Gorge this evening, has been postponed on account of the weather, and the members are requested to meet at the Y. W. C. A. rooms at 6:30 as usual. Supper will be served at that time and the evening spent in a social manner.

Will Join Militia.—Emsley L. Yeo, a member of the teaching staff of the Boys' Central school for the past year, is resigning to join for overseas service. Mr. Yeo had a brilliant record at McGill University before graduating and is a local boy; the board was glad to start him in his scholastic career by an appointment here immediately he left college.

Anti-Germanism.—A private in the Gordon Highlanders, who has been engaged on guard duty at Cape Lazo station, returned to the city last week, and admitted to-day to the police magistrate he had been drinking, when brought up on a charge of using "bad language to a neighbor, a German woman, who is married to a Luxemburger. He made some remark derogatory to the Teutons, accompanied, according to the prosecution's story, with abusive terms, which were, however, denied by him in the box. He was discharged with a warning.

WARD ONE LIBERALS ENDORSE CANDIDATES

Members of Ward Association Prepare for Coming Election and Appoint Committees. There was a well-attended meeting of the members of Ward One Liberal Association last evening in the rooms in the Arcade building, the president, C. F. Bantfield, in the chair.

A number of matters of business arising out of the coming general election were dealt with, and plans were made for the campaign in Ward One, committees being appointed to attend to the work.

The secretary, A. T. Weight, being out of town Charles Cousins was appointed as secretary pro tem.

On motion of J. S. Brandon the following resolution was adopted unanimously: "Resolved, that the Liberals of Ward One express their confidence in the leader of the party, H. C. Brewster, whose efforts in the cause of honest government and whose work for the up-building of British Columbia have commended themselves to all right-thinking electors and citizens; their high appreciation of the work done by himself and by M. A. Macdonald during the late session of the legislature; and their opinion that more than ever in this province there is need for a man of his integrity and business ability at the head of affairs.

"Further resolved, that this association pledges itself to actively support the candidature of Mr. Brewster and his associates on the city ticket—Ald. George Bell, John Hart and Henry C. Hall—in the coming elections; recognizing that in them the electors can safely trust to assist in giving the province the sound and progressive administration of its business that it so much needs."

Mr. Hall, Mr. Hart and Ald. Bell were present, and all spoke briefly on the issues of the campaign.

Action is Dismissed.—Mr. Justice Murphy has given judgment in the case of Cottonwood Timber Company v. Melsons Bank, dismissing the action, which arose out of the mortgage of a sawmill and timber property. E. V. Bodwell, K. C., acted for the plaintiff company, and S. Taylor, K. C., Vancouver, for the bank.

Suing the Doukhobors.—Mrs. Jennie E. Harris, Nelson, is the plaintiff in a suit which Mr. Justice Clement is hearing at the Nelson assizes to-day. The defendants are the Doukhobor colony and Peter Verigin. Mrs. Harris is suing for a large sum as commissions claimed on the sale of tracts of land for the community in Saskatchewan, and for a salary which she claims is owing to her for acting as agent and general manager of the affairs of the colony.

Build Bath House.—For the purpose of providing accommodation for those who would use the beach at the Willows for bathing purposes, the Oak Bay council yesterday evening discussed the question of building a bath house there, and it was agreed to appropriate $175, if that much should be required to provide for the construction of dressing rooms. It was felt that the beach would be more popular than ever if this convenience is erected. The approval of the members was unanimous on the regular reports of the municipal officers, which were submitted.

School Singing.—Various circumstances have delayed the city school board in receiving the formal report on the school singing competitions last month till the meeting last evening. It was felt that the report of Messrs. Kent and Sell, the judges, in its comprehensive character, was one of the best laid before the board. Speaking of the supervisors' work, the judges say: "Mr. Pollard is, we feel, to be particularly commended for the work he accomplishes from year to year, sometimes under adverse conditions as it must be, and we again urge, the teachers to continue giving him their loyal support in a work that is of unaccountable value."

Magical Effect on Neuralgia Throbbing Pain Goes Quickly. A Year's Sufferer Cured by "Nerviline". No person suffering this need ever again suffer long from Neuralgia. Nerviline will quickly cure the worst Neuralgia, and Mrs. G. Evans in her strong letter written from Russell post-office, says: "One long year, the longest of my life, was almost entirely given up to treating dreadful attacks of Neuralgia. The agony I experienced during some of the bad attacks was simply unmentionable. To use remedies by the score without permanent relief was mighty discouraging. At last I put my faith in Nerviline; I read of the wonderful pain-subduing power it possessed and made up my mind to prove it valuable or useless. Nerviline at once eased the pain and cured the headache. Continuous treatment with this magic-working remedy cured me entirely and I have ever since stayed well."

Mrs. Evans' case is but one of hundreds that might be quoted. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve, muscular or joint pain. It quickly cures neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, neuritis and rheumatism. Forty years in use, and to-day the most widely used remedy in the Dominion. Don't take anything but "Nerviline," which any dealer anywhere can supply in large 50c family-size bottles, or in a small 25c trial size.

Anti-Germanism.—A private in the Gordon Highlanders, who has been engaged on guard duty at Cape Lazo station, returned to the city last week, and admitted to-day to the police magistrate he had been drinking, when brought up on a charge of using "bad language to a neighbor, a German woman, who is married to a Luxemburger. AT THE THEATRES

ROYAL VICTORIA.

A full house greeted the first presentation of "The Two Orphans" with an all-star cast at the Royal Victoria last evening.

The most massive and elaborate sets that ever lent truth and color to a photo-play are used in this production. The scene in the streets of Paris, showing the arrival of the Normandy coach, with the two orphans, Henriette (Theda Bara) and Louise (Jean Sothern), alone cost $5,000 to build and took two weeks in its construction.

The scene showing the prison of Salpetriere, the most infamous place of captivity that ever existed, is equally elaborate. It consumed a week's work to erect, but so immense is the open air stage utilized by William Fox that room was found for it on the same boards as the streets of Paris scene.

DOMINION THEATRE.

"The Eternal Grind" in which the incomparable Mary Pickford is starred by the Famous Players Film Company, is the paramount picture at the Dominion theatre this week.

"THE NARROW FELLER" HERE. Amusing Comedian Occupies Prominent Place in Pantages Bill This Week.

There is a man at Pantages this week who might have stepped right out of one of the Wrackham-illustrated fairy books, so lean and gnarled, agile and hobgoblinish is he. "The Narrow Feller" is a much better name than the one his parents gave him, which hints not the slightest of the strange long-ancient-faced creature who skips about the stage and affords a con-in the situation and, seizing the revolver from Amy's hand, she holds Ernest at bay while a minister is obtained. Then she slides behind a curtain and holds the gun at Ernest's back while he and Amy go through the marrying ceremony.

Mary, meanwhile, has found a new and deep interest in Owen Wharton, Ernest's very manly brother. Owen is deeply in sympathy with the factory workers and even goes so far as to take a position in the plant under another name. When the rotten factory caves in, Owen is caught in the debris and seriously injured. Mary finds him and assists in saving his life. Of course, the father finally relents and changes his views on the subject of factory construction—and of daughters-in-law, but it is not until Mary has fought a few more battles.

Loretta Blake, Dorothy West, John Bowers, Robert Cain, J. Albert Hall and other well known players appear in support of Miss Pickford in this the most powerful of her photoplay characterizations.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The feature film at the Majestic is "On Dangerous Paths," a special four-part photo-play. Eleanor Thurston, of Sterrettville, and Roger Sterrett, son of the wealthiest resident, are in love. Strangely enough, Eleanor has not imbibed the philosophy of her father, a minister. Consequently, when John, her business-like sister, arrives from the city for a stay, Eleanor sees no reason why she should not take advantage of an offer made by an uncle in the city to help her all he could if she decided to become a business woman.

Roger arrives in the city to investigate some difficulties in the New York office of his father. His arrival is celebrated by him and other gay young rounders, with the result that early in the morning he is picked up intoxicated by Dr. Sinclair and taken to the hospital. In the morning Eleanor, now doing day duty, recognizes him. Roger earnestly pleads with her to go back to the country, but Eleanor is practically in Dr. Sinclair's power, and refuses. When Roger learns of her love for him, he leaves in a rage, and in full view of Eleanor, flirts with a stranger, and leaves with her in an automobile. Eleanor has a dinner engagement with Dr. Sinclair. They arrive at a wayside inn and are seen by Roger, who is there with Miss Montgomery, the flirt. Eleanor and the doctor have a private dining room, much to Roger's discomfort. A note is handed to the physician and soon he is on the veranda arguing with Roger, who finally convinces him of his sincere love for the girl. The doctor leaves, and Roger greets Eleanor, telling her what has transpired. Miss Montgomery, deserted, enters the private room and upbraids Roger. Eleanor and Roger are back in Sterrettville the following Sunday, the happiest persons in the world.

A DELEGATION OF WOMEN

were intensely interested when they recently visited the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., and saw the extreme cleanliness and purity which prevail in the preparation and storing of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as well as of her other medicines. An hour is required to go through so large an establishment. One thing which struck the visitors was the great number of files containing the letters of women who told how much the famous Compound had done for them. Only part of them are published, and no letter is ever published without the writer's permission.

VICTORIAN TELLS OF LIFE AT PETAWAWA

Member of 62nd Battery Says Camp is Ideally Situated for Training Purposes

A former member of the Times staff, who left Victoria with the 62nd Battery, C. F. A., writing from Petawawa under date of June 13, says:

"This is the end of a day, which in Victoria we always called a 'scorcher,' but which in this country they simply call a warm day. This morning when we turned out at 5 o'clock we saw the first of Old Sol for four days and the old boy evidently made up for lost time. At mid-day the heat was blistering and this afternoon it was too oppressive for the boys to drill and they were taken to the Ottawa river for a swim. Persons familiar with the climatic conditions of this part of the country say that this is only the start of the warm weather. The coast boys are certainly feeling the heat, but do not doubt we will become acclimated.

"We are now fully acquainted with our new surroundings, such as they are. Petawawa camp is ideally situated for training purposes and the boys were somewhat surprised—and agreeably surprised—to find that the real camp was greatly superior from what their imagination had painted. While in Victoria we were led to believe that Petawawa was nothing but a desert, a huge sand pit as level as a pancake, with sand with every meal and mixed up in your blankets and eyes and abounding with mosquitoes. The only true criticism of the place was in respect to the weather. It certainly is hot and it must assuredly can rain.

"We reached Petawawa at 7 o'clock on the morning of June 2, and found the weather cool and conditions contrary to our expectations. The land is undulating and there are numerous trees. Of course one would not call these trees in British Columbia, but they were a lot when we got the real warm days. There is no disputing the fact that there is sand here, but plenty of grass grows on it and we are not troubled to any extent by it. The camp is bounded on three sides by the Petawawa and Ottawa rivers. There is some fine scenery on both waterways and we are allowed to swim in the Ottawa, which privilege is extensively utilized. The Petawawa flows too swiftly and is considered too dangerous for swimming. On the north across the Ottawa is a low range of hills which remind us of the Sooke hills. The camp is too large for anyone to view it from any especial vantage point. From our little knoll we can see the lines of our own brigade and those of another two brigades on the west. At present there are several thousand artillerymen here. There is an artillery range some distance from our lines. The different units are out firing every day. A visit to this famous range is a privilege in store for us and the boys are anxiously looking forward to it. We, no doubt, will get plenty of firing before we get out of Petawawa.

"We had good weather until Thursday last, when we were visited by a genuine Ontario rain. It rained off and on in torrents and drizzles until yesterday and even spoiled a church parade on Sunday. We were all praying for a look at the sun in order to get our clothes dried, and this morning we were delighted to see the bright beams coming through the tent flaps. By noon, however, some of the boys were wishing it would rain again. It does not matter much what the weather or other conditions may be; it is a soldier's privilege to kick and complain, and he certainly takes advantage of it. The most of the boys are having their hair cut in the 'close crop' style, which no doubt will give an impetus to the growth of moustaches, an impetus which is sadly needed by some of us. The order for moustaches came out two days ago and the boys are assiduously coaxing the straggling and straggling fluff. As a result of the heat, we heard to-day that we were to have straw hats to protect our fair countenances. I guess they will be the same kind of hats that the Western Scots had.

"The battery and column are now setting down to their real work in earnest. Reveille sounds at 5 a.m. daily, and on Sunday at 6:30 a.m. The boys work until 5 p.m., and have a wholesome amount of 'disappointed' and sun drills, lectures on shells and ammunition, fitting of harness, knots and splices and a sprinkling of fatigues. Our horses arrived on Saturday after a thirteen-day trip from Victoria. Some of them were rather shaky when they got here and are now recuperating. In a few days they will be ready for work and we expect to start battery manoeuvres in the near future.

"The 62nd Battery has a fine situation and is far enough away from the rivers to escape the largest swarms of 'skitters.' We have two rows of tents, with seven and eight men in a tent. Between the tents are the horse lines, the horses being held by head ropes and hobbles. There are fine horses in some of the other lines, but when our horses are in shape I think we will be able to line up with any of them.

"Regarding our trip across the continent there is little of interest to tell. We had a fine time and were four days and five nights on the way. We had a few brief stop-overs, and excellent facilities at all cities and towns, especially Vancouver, Kamloops, Kenora, Fort William and Sudbury. The boys found many 'friends,' and as is the case with all other regiments and batteries going through, we lost many of our badges. Some of the fair-ones must have great collections, as many of them said that they had received badges from nearly every unit that had passed through their town. There was plenty of fun and amusement on the train. We had Colonist cars, with three men to a section. Many jokes were played. One night as the men in the upper berths were slumbering some of the boys went through the train and ran up the berths, causing much discomfort to the fellow above and lots of mirth for the men below.

"The boys are all well and happy, although there are times when they think eagerly of Victoria. When turning in for the night between their blankets with the cool, hard ground beneath them, there is usually a few remarks passed to the following effect:

"Say do you remember those things they used to call sheets?"

"And Restmore and feather pillows?"

"Say, how would you like to be home, boy?"

"Ow-w-w. What's that I'm lying on? A root, I guess."

"Then 'lights out' is sounded and over go the boys to make the best of a night's rest."

VETERANS AID IN RECRUITING

Bantam Rally for Saturday in Which British Campaigners Will Enlist Men

When the special Bantam recruiting rally is held by the British Campaigners' Association on Saturday, a feature of the afternoon will be a recitation by a man who lived the incident of which a great poet wrote, George Millett, who was a member of that gallant force which held Lucknow for the empire and heard the distant pipes of the relieving force, will recite "Jessie's Dreams," a stirring poem narrating the details of the relief. Mr. Millett will be accompanied in an automobile by fellow campaigners who wear the medals of wars of over half a century ago. Mr. Brinkley Robinson, who served at Alma and Inkerman in the Crimea in "fifty-five," Mr. Davy and other veterans who fought in the years gone by. These men and others who have done their duty will appeal to the young men of to-day to come forward and do their duty as they did.

The British Campaigners have arranged to hold a parade led by the bugle band of the 143rd Battalion, in the absence of the band which is engaged on special recruiting duty on the mainland. The band is accompanying a recruiting expedition from Vancouver to Chilliwack, through the Fraser valley. All members of the Campaigners' Association who can do so have agreed to become special recruiting officers for the day, and it is expected that as a result there will be many additions to the growing ranks of the Bantams before Saturday night.

Yesterday afternoon a draft of recruits enlisted by the expedition working on the mainland arrived and took up their quarters with their comrades at the barracks at Beacon Hill, and in the evening another contingent arrived from Courtenay, where they were enlisted by Lieuts. Duncan and Ely, who have just returned from a recruiting trip continuing to Campbell River, in which they covered 552 miles by motor car. A party of 15 is on the way from Alberta, and more are expected to follow.

The I. O. D. E. are assisting in the work of recruiting. The ladies of this well known order which has done, and is doing, so much for the imperial cause, are wearing recruiting badges this week calling upon the young men of Victoria to hear the call to the great adventure, to enlist themselves to assist in the great fight for freedom. On Thursday the ladies held their Alexandra Rose-day, and all who take part are expected to wear their recruiting badges.

The mainland recruiting party, headed by Lieut. Peck and accompanied by the 143rd Battalion band, reached New Westminster yesterday and is at work to-day in that city, where it is anticipated that they will receive a similar reception to that at Vancouver. At the "Terminal City" the band played itself into the hearts of the people and the Bantams are now known throughout the length and breadth of the city.

MECHANICAL TRANSPORT.

Examinations Being Held Daily at Old Drill Hall; Corps to Go Overseas When Complete.

Daily hereafter, until the corps is brought to strength, examinations will be held from 2 to 4 p. m. at the old drill hall, Menzies street, recruits for the Mechanical Transport Corps which is now being formed here. Forty-five of the necessary one hundred men who are required before the corps can go overseas have already been recruited. There are still scores of expert experienced motor mechanics in the city and district, and from their ranks it is hoped to draw the requisite men to complete the corps within the next fortnight or so. Applications should be sent to the head office, 567 Head street, Esquimalt. For the convenience of the men themselves the examinations are being held, however, in the old drill hall, James Bay, each afternoon, and it is hoped that not many days will elapse before the additional men have been attested.

LETTER BOX

ASSISTANCE TO FARMERS.

To the Editor.—The following facts were given to me by a man of great practical experience who thoroughly knows what he is talking about. Incidentally the facts were confirmed by an independent witness:

Some years ago in Montana a couple of young Englishmen, the happy possessors of some $25,000, started a new venture. They opened a "People's Bank," really a loan office, upon novel lines: They did not lend money, but what they did do was to find out the farmers who had a good name for honesty, no matter how poor they were, and stock their farms for them on shares. They dealt much in Angora goats, which were peculiarly suited to the local conditions (as they are here).

As a flock of these increases over 40 per cent. each year, at the end of five years, when the "bankers" claimed their share (50 per cent. of the flock), they realized an enormous profit, whilst leaving the farmer in a vastly better position than he could otherwise have attained. In the interim the farmer had realized $3.50 per annum per head for the fleece alone, keeping the stock for breeding purposes.

These young Englishmen are millionaires to-day, and are held in the highest esteem by the farmers, who regard them as benefactors, and whom they started on the high road to prosperity.

My informant stated that he had laid these facts before the agricultural commission. Surely this is ahead of lending money to farmers at low (?) interest.

"THE OCCULT."

To the Editor.—Few indeed are those who, by the width of their reading and the quickness of their intellectual sympathy, are qualified to survey the field of contemporary speculation relating to the occult, and assuredly I am not among them. But even a casual observer must note the tendency to the progress of psychic research, more especially in that branch named psychotherapy, or Christian Science.

To many thoughtful people the progress which the latter is making everywhere is not so astonishing when one realizes that after all it may be merely the essence of Christianity without any of that embroidery which has enveloped the latter through the ages.

To this embroidery allied to the many absurdities, the narrowness, the bygone persecution of so-called "religion," we no doubt owe one hand the modern skepticism of the "plain man" and on the other the lack and loss of whatever research man's heart previously inclined to in these realms of investigation. To the "plain man" science has already told much; each day she tells him more, and within the little patch or clearing thus made for him in the tangled wilderness of the unknown he feels at home. He is content with the kind of knowledge he possesses about men and things—so far as it goes. He points out to us the absurdity of the story of Jonah and the whale, and because he finds Genesis contradicted itself and many of the sayings of Christ were previously spoken by Confucius, thinks that humanity must be made better by parliament and socialistic doses of pure reason.

But though reason laughs at Daniel and the lions and at the escape of Lot's wife, the heart still has its dreams, and an inner consciousness whispers that the unrealizable may nevertheless be true. For this inner consciousness—or rather the consciousness within a conscience—continues to believe and have faith long after reason has rejected symbolic fairy tales as rubbish. It is only recently, too, that this inner consciousness has found its champions. The science of psychology is as yet in its infancy and things more wonderful than any secrets of the laboratory may one day be discovered.

If there is far less dogma in the world than formerly—for which heaven be thanked—and no persecution for such research, it is a question whether the energies of western civilization are not too entirely occupied in the double task of creating wealth and disputing over its distribution to allow time for thought in spiritual manifestations.

Most men and women are amateurs in all departments of activity excepting the practical or artistic, to which they have devoted their lives. More and more does the division and subdivision of labor become necessary for knowledge, as for industry. More and more have we to choose whether we shall be dabblers in many subjects or specialists in one; and while it becomes clear that each class has its characteristic defects, both are required in the great republic of knowledge.

We have accepted certain general propositions intuitively without final conclusive evidence, and feel secure about general laws when adequate evidence for them is really impossible.

As far back as Democritus we find the confident assertion that the world consists of atoms, and that its infinite

LAST PIPE SHIPMENT

Saanich Waterworks Scheme Approaching Completion; Works Committee This Evening.

With the arrival of the last shipment of pipe for the Saanich waterworks on board the Harrison liner Barister to-day, the municipal council is able to contemplate the future of its waterworks-undertaking. When the present pipe has been laid, it is doubtful if the council will desire to proceed by general by-law in extending the service, it being explained that the work can well be done by water districts in the way provided in the special act, a section of the community undertaking to have its own system served from the municipal trunk mains. Gordon Head is the district not served under the present system, which requires water worst, and could be supplied best from the main now terminating at Cedar Hill. However, it will be some time before the council will require to deal definitely with the future of the waterworks service.

At the meeting of the works committee of the council this evening the question of the paving bill will be to the front. As the grading operations are now considerably ahead of the paving, it will be necessary to determine what steps to take in order to assure the continuation of the two classes of work approximately close together, and thus not have the trunk roads indefinitely tied up during the summer. Grading is in progress on several roads now.

variety is due to the motions and positions of immitable and imperceptible units, which, if they are not exactly alike, at least differ less among themselves than do the visible objects into which they are compounded.

Through successive centuries this theory never died. With the revival of learning and the beginning of modern science it burst into fresh life. It was treated as almost self-evident by philosophers like Giassendi and Hobbes. Boyle held it in its most uncompromising form. Newton assumed it without question. After a period of varying fortunes in the eighteenth century, a modification of it in the hands of Dalton started a new era in chemistry. Taken over by the physicists, it now lies at the root of the modern theory of gases and liquids; the modern theory of heat and the modern theory of electricity. The difference between the atoms of Democritus and the electrons of Sir Joseph Thompson is great, but the agreement is fundamental.

The ancients who believed in atoms had no experimental warrant for their convictions. Nor had Bacon, nor Giassendi, nor Hobbes, Boyle and Newton. If experience did not establish a belief, whence came it? If it represents nothing better than an individual guess, why did it appeal so persistently to leaders of scientific thought and by what strange hazard does it turn out to be true?

But the atomic theory is by no means the only example of tendencies which Descartes regarded the conservation of motion as a self-evident inference from the rationality of a spiritual being. It is true that he neither had experimental evidence of his doctrine, nor could he, under any circumstances, have obtained it, for the energy of motion, as he incorrectly described it, is not conserved. Leibnitz described it correctly, had as great a confidence in its conservation and as little proof to support him as his predecessor, but he dogmatically asserted that, when motion seemed to disappear, what was lost by the bodies which we see was exactly taken up by their component elements which we do not see; so that nothing in the nature of what he called vis viva was either lost or created. That this transformation of energy from molar to molecular motion is constantly occurring we now have sufficient proof. But Leibnitz had no proof he made a bold anticipation of experience, with nothing to support but a priori inclination.

When we survey man's strivings to understand the world in which he lives the subject of physical research seems to be one of the most important and most fascinating of all human problems, because through it may lie that justification for belief in eternal life which the church is falling to give at a time when humanity is asking for something more definite than assertion.

BARRISTER MAKING HER SECOND VOYAGE

Harrison Freighter Now In Port Is One of the Latest Additions to Fleet

Completing her second voyage since being launched, the British steamer Barrister, Captain J. Richards, of the Harrison Direct Line, reached the outer docks at 8.30 a. m. to-day from London, Glasgow and Liverpool, via the Panama canal and California ports. The Barrister, which is of the same type as the Student and other vessels previously here in the Harrison service, was built at the Connell yards, Glasgow. Her maiden voyage was from Liverpool to Capetown.

There are but few distinguishing marks about the Barrister to indicate that she is owned by the Harrison Line, the familiar red and white bands on the stack and name being obliterated, while her hull and superstructure is painted black. The Barrister first went on berth at London, March 25, and later shifted to Glasgow and finally Liverpool. She passed down the Irish Channel without incident, and the voyage across the Atlantic to Colon was marked by splendid weather conditions. The freighter averaged 11 knots during the 4,700-mile run to the canal zone.

Captain Richards says that after he got through the canal another small slide was reported in Gaillard Cut, but only vessels drawing more than 22 feet of water were held up. The slide was not serious and was soon well in hand. With the arrival of the Barrister at San Pedro she was seriously delayed by the longshoremen's strike, being detained at the Southern California port for eleven days without working a pound of cargo. In the end the vessel was ordered to San Francisco to discharge. She remained at the Golden Gate port five days, during which time she put off 3,500 tons. For this port the Barrister has 750 tons, of which about 400 tons is made up of waterpipes for the Saninch municipality. She is under orders to get away to-morrow morning for Vancouver.

ANCIENT SHIPS ARE NOW PLYING SEAS

Capt. M. F. Cutler Says Motley Collection of Vessels Are Operating From N. Y.

In speaking of the shortage of tonnage as it applies to the Atlantic coast, Capt. Melville F. Cutler, the well known master mariner of this city, who recently returned from New York after delivering the old Collier Wellington over to her new owners, says that vessels of all sorts and sizes, vessels that for many years past had been considered candidates for the ship-breaker or junk pile, are being dragged from seclusion, outfitted as quickly as possible, and placed in commission, some in the coastal trade between United States and Canadian ports and others in the Atlantic service. At the high charter rates now offering for anything that can float, providing it has sufficient cargo capacity, these ancient vessels are money-makers from the initial voyage. Few of these old vessels are covered by insurance, or their cargoes for that matter, as insurance rates on such craft are prohibitive.

Capt. Cutler states that while he was at New York the old sealer Newfoundland arrived there from the Canadian side, to be fitted out for the Atlantic trade. She is an old-timer, but staunch, and may yet see many years of service, although she was never intended for the trade in which she is to be placed. Reference was also made by Capt. Cutler to the recent transfer of the famous old barge Foohing Suey, formerly the Boston barque of that name, which has just changed hands for the second time recently, at a price said to be $125,000, an advance of $82,000 over the previous purchase figure. The Foohing Suey is to be refitted as a barque and operated in the ocean trade.

SHIPS WERE SUNK; SAW ZEPPELIN RAID

Captain Richards and Mate Green, of Barrister, Were on Dictator and Centurion

WITNESSED DESTRUCTION OF AIRSHIP IN THAMES

Officers Tell of Experiences When Vessels Were Trapped by German Submarines

To have their ships sunk under them by German submarines while plying the high seas and to be in the thick of the most recent big Zeppelin raid over London are outstanding experiences of officers of the Harrison Direct Line steamship Barrister, now in port from the United Kingdom. Such incidents, however, are now taken to be all in the days work by the men of the British mercantile marine, and the principals are inclined to greatly minimize the seriousness of the danger which lately dogs these men who are entrusted with the important business of maintaining the seaborne commerce of the world during these perilous times.

Captain J. Richards, master of the Barrister, was commander of the Harrison steamship Dictator up to the time that vessel was destroyed by the usual methods of Teutonic sea piracy, and with him as first officer is H. W. Green, who was mate of the steamship Centurion when she met the same fate.

With the exception of Capt. Richards, who was in Liverpool at the time the officers of the Barrister, when the vessel was on berth at London for this port, had the satisfaction of witnessing the destruction of one of Germany's most modern Zeppelins, the L15, on the occasion of the big raid over the British metropolis last March. The Barrister arrived at London to load for this coast on March 25, and during the night of March 31 five Zeppelins sailed over the great city, dropping incendiary bombs indiscriminately.

The Barrister was lying at the Tilbury dock and First Officer Green was one of the eye-witnesses of the raid. He says the Zeppelins were steered towards the city at a high altitude, and in order to get in their deadly work were forced to seek a lower level, and it was then that the British anti-aircraft service showed up to advantage. The blackness of the night was illuminated by numberless powerful searchlights, and the air reverberated with explosions as the gunners peppered the aircraft with shrapnel. The raiding air-fleet got a warm reception. It was soon seen that one of the Zeppelins had been hit, and was in difficulties. It proved to be the L15. While the anti-aircraft guns were still directing a fusillade skyward, the L15, like a crippled bird, dropped and found a resting place in the Thames, where she was immediately pounced upon by a fleet of patrol boats.

How Dictator Was Lost.

In speaking of his experience on the Dictator, Capt. Richards says that his ship was sunk when about 105 miles W.S.W. of the Selly Islands. Early on the morning of September 5, 1915, the second officer reported a trawler under sail, which proved to be a submarine, and while the captain was in the chart room picking up the vessel's position, a shot was fired over the after deck. She flew signals to abandon ship at once, and before the men could be ordered to the boats another shot was fired over the bridge, and as the men were lowering the boats a third shot was fired over the forepart of the ship. When the boats had got clear of the steamer the submarine came to the starboard side and fired a torpedo, the missile striking the engine room. As the ship was not settling fast enough the Germans fired numerous shots into her hull. Capt. Richards counted 23 shots before she finally sank by the stern. No words were passed between the submarine crew and the crew of the Dictator.

After sinking the ship the submarine steered N.E. The men in the Dictator's boats hoisted jury sail and steered E. N. E. and were all night in a bad sea. At 7 a. m. next morning they saw a steamer with a yellow funnel, and lowered sails and proceeded to row towards the vessel, but when she sighted the boats those aboard her evidently took them to be a submarine decoy, as she steamed a zig-zag course and soon left them far in her wake. The boats then steered N.E. until noon, when they sighted the Spanish steamer Apollonia, bound from Glasgow to the Argentine, who picked the Dictator's men up. The men were later transferred to a patrol boat and landed at Penzance.

SCHEME TO DEVELOP VANCOUVER HARBOR

Commissioners Seek Approval of $5,000,000 Bond Issue to Acquire Terminal Properties

Ottawa, June 20.—The Vancouver harbor commission has submitted an application for approval of an issue of $5,000,000 of bonds to enable the commissioners to acquire certain properties and develop such as the beginning of a scheme of terminal facilities for Vancouver harbor. The application has received the approval of the committee of the privy council, but has yet to be assented to by his royal highness the governor general.

Included in the properties to be acquired is the famous Kitsilano reserve, the estimated cost of which is $700,000, or exactly $100 more than paid by the British Columbia government to the Indians for the reserve. Property at Port Moody, the Heaps property on Burrard Inlet, wharf property and warehouses of the Great Northern railway and waterfront property immediately east of the Great Northern railway also are included in the proposed purchases, together with appropriations for a right-of-way for a harbor terminal railway and a portion of the present right-of-way of the P. G. E.

The plans of the harbor commission of Vancouver are embraced in the following report of the committee of the privy council:

The committee of the privy council have had before them a report, dated March 2, 1916, from the minister of marine and fisheries as follows:

1. The Vancouver harbor commission has submitted an application for the approval, as provided for in section 25 of chapter 54, of the act of 1913, of an issue of $5,000,000 of bonds, to enable the commissioners to acquire certain property, and to develop the same satisfactorily as a beginning of a comprehensive scheme of terminal facilities for the harbor of Vancouver, in an operation to extend over a period of about five years. The bonds are to run for a period of 25 years, bearing interest at 5 per cent, to be secured as provided in the act above quoted.

2. The properties to be acquired, all adjacent to the said harbor, are as follows:—(a) An area of property known as the Kitsilano Indian reserve, containing approximately 30 acres; estimated cost, $700,000; (b) property at Port Moody, marked red on plan here-to attached, having a frontage of one-half mile, and including a large tidal flat area approximately 88 acres, estimated cost, $250,000; (c) the property known as the Heaps property on Burrard Inlet, containing approximately 164 acres, estimated cost, $650,000; (d) a portion of the present right-of-way of the Pacific Great Eastern railway, estimated cost, $15,257; (e) wharf property and warehouses of the Great Northern Railway Company and the waterfront property immediately to the east of the Great Northern Railway Company's property, estimated cost, $1,800,000; total, $5,759,125.

Against the above estimated cost, the commissioners expect to raise the following credits:

Property to be exchanged with the various interests owning portions of the property above scheduled in return for an amount of the contiguous foreshore of equal value, up to a total of $2,448,823.50; balance of cost of acquiring the above, $3,320,294.75.

The commissioners further propose to retire bonds already issued for completed works in the development of the harbor, amounting to $200,000. Total, $3,520,294.75.

Balance available for development of the above properties and the provision of other facilities, $1,478,776.50. Making a total of $5,000,000.

3. The entire proposition embraced in the above scheme has been submitted to the chief engineer of the department of marine and fisheries for examination and report, and that officer has reported in detail, recommending approval of the scheme and giving it as his opinion that, from personal knowledge and investigation and from evidence placed before him by the commissioners, the several railway companies, the corporation of Vancouver and North Vancouver, business firms and private citizens are unanimous in favor of having the scheme carried through; and that the completion of same will eventually insure a large revenue to the harbor commission.

4. The inspector of harbor commissions, who was especially commissioned to look into the various matters embraced in the commissioners' scheme, on the ground, concurs in the recommendations of the chief engineer.

The minister, therefore, recommends the approval of the issue by the Vancouver harbor commission, of $5,000,000 of bonds for the purpose and on the terms above outlined, on the condition that the bonds are to be used in payment of the balance of the purchase price for the property to be acquired, amounting to $3,320,294.75, while the remainder of the bonds, $1,679,705.25, will be sold—the commissioners representing that they already have an offer of $1,500,000 of cash for the value of the amount in bonds at a discount of five points, to be used first, to retire the existing issue of $200,000 of bonds above-mentioned, and second, in the gradual development, extending over a period of five years, of such items of the programme as in the judgment of the commissioners, with the approval of the minister of marine and fisheries, promise to become immediately revenue-producing, with the further condition that plans, specifications and estimates for all work for the development of the above property for the provision of other facilities shall receive the approval of the minister of marine and fisheries, promise to become immediately revenue producing, with the further condition that plans, specifications and estimates for all work for the development of the above property for the provision of other facilities shall receive the approval of the minister of marine and fisheries, before any work is started or expenditure on same is incurred.

The committee concur in the foregoing recommendation and submit the same for approval.

(Sgd.) RODOLPHE BOURDEAU, Clerk of the Privy Council.

INCOGNITOS LEAD IN VIRTUE CUP SERIES

University Men Have the Best Averages With the Bat

For the Virtue Cup the Incognitos are in the lead, and in consequence show the best averages with the bat. Allen has scored consistently, and has three not out innings to his credit, scoring 45, 2, 26 all not out and 1 giving an average of 84. Ackroyd 24, 24, 19 and 26 or a total of 133; Schwengels 27, 25, 16; Sparks, 25, 19, 22, 24; Barbaele, 15, and 21, and Oxenham with 28, 44 were the principal scorers. The Garrison are led by Askey with scores of 5, 37, 5, 38 and 48 or a total of 133. H. Bealea scored 95, 17, 3, 8, 61; Robertson, 70, with 26, 5, 2 and 37 not out, and Major Gillespie 54, 0, 11; total 65.

The Albion C. C. have been very inconsistent, having lost many of their best men. Ismay has scored most runs in the league, 229, with scores of 54, 32, not out; 8, 25, 6, 11 and 56. Hudson, who began well, but seems to be out of luck, has scored 78-11, 42, 8, 0, 14, 1, 2, Stephenson made 58p with scores of 3, 25, 13, 15.

Fletcher has done best with 76, 45 not out, 25 and 6 for the Five C's. Marshall made more runs 93, with totals of 25, 4 and 14; R. V. Lee, 88, with scores of 13, 41, 1, 0, 6 not out, and 7; Radcliffe 63 with 19, 5, 20, 19.

For the Victoria Club Sargent has the best average, having made scores of 36 not out, 4, 43 and 2; Booth made more runs, but had more innings, 1, 18, 55, 53, 7 and 4-138 runs, Verral 62 runs, and Hill 51 were the next in order. Lethaby made a score of 57 and Turner of 23.

The Congregationals depended upon 2 men for their runs. Erickson has made 80 with scores of 76, 2, 0, 11, and Collett 48, with 1, 18 not out, 16, 12, 1.

A word might be said to the fielders in respect to throwing in straight to the wicket keeper. Many times a man would have been run out easily if the ball had been thrown straight to the man behind the stumps without allowing the ball to bounce. When the Australians were here it was very noticeable that even from the long field the ball was thrown straight in without loss of time, and this would help to brighten up the game considerably and keep the short runs down.

With the inauguration of the Saturday half holiday it is hoped that the public will support the matches very much better. They will be well entertained, and the ladies can take their knitting or fancy work, and for a small charge obtain afternoon tea at several of the grounds.

GUIGNI HITTING

Former Northwestern Leaguer is Out in Front of Coast League Batters.

San Francisco, June 20.—"Ping" Guigni, of San Francisco, maintained during the past week his position as leading batter of the Pacific Coast League. He has made 194 hits out of 284 trips to the plate, for a percentage of 366. Fitzgerald, his disabled teammate, still ranks second with 353, and "Bunny" Brief, Salt Lake's first baseman, improved his average four points to .347 for third honors.

A new contender has appeared, however, to keep the leaders hustling, in the person of Guigni, of the Bees. Guigni, a mere youngster, has contended only in two series or threeabouts, but is hitting at a .469 clip. A week ago this dark horse was rated at but .231. Guigni, while ranking higher in percentage with regular leaders, cannot be granted the full honor as leading batsman until he has appeared in more games. Although the foregoing figures were taken from unofficial tabulations, they are within a small fraction of the official tables, which have not yet been prepared.

SAM LANGFORD BROKE

After Twenty Years in Ring the "Big Cloud" Finds Himself Up Against It.

He's monarch of all he surveys in the Pork Chop League, but his royal exchequer is slightly bent. After ruling supreme for 200 or more ring combats, Sam Langford, the Boston tar baby, according to Manager Joe Woodman, is broke.

Dust-laden guide books show that Langford is now 36 years of age and that he has been knocking rival maulers for goals since he was 16. To date he has not been stopped and by many is regarded as the world's greatest fighter.

He ought to be fixed for the winter, but such is not the case unless Sam's wife, to whom he turned over all his life earnings—$35,000—surrenders some to her husband, from whom she separated. Otherwiser Sam, at 36, has to go to work and dig up some new meal tickets in the roped arena.

RUSSELL FORD GOES BACK TO THE FARM

Canadian Pitcher, Who Invented "Emery Ball," is Through With the Game

The fact that Russell Ford a few days ago received his unconditional release from the major leagues received but scant attention in the overcrowded daily papers, this despite the fact that Ford is one of the very few Canadians who has achieved a really great place in baseball—George Gibson, Jack McLean and Tip O'Neill being among the others. Ford was born in Manitoba, and was only 33 years old, but he found that too old for baseball.

In 1914 Russ pulled a glorious comeback with the Buffalo Breds, leading the hurlers in the Federal circuit, with 21 victories to his credit and only six defeats chalked up against him. Last year he was recalled and given another chance, but in the latter part of August he again received his unconditional release. Russ' downfall was due to the ban placed upon the emery ball by the Federal league directors. Ford, who was known as the inventor of this form of delivery, had nothing else, and with the emery ball barred he was all through.

Ford started professional pitching with Cedar Rapids in 1905, and remained in the Iowa city two seasons. Then followed two years with Atlanta, and his work in the Southern League was so good that he was purchased by the New York Americans, but was turned over to Jersey City for further seasoning in 1909. The next year he joined the hurling staff of the Yankees, then managed by George Stallings. Ford was the sensation of the year, winning twenty-six victories while he met but six defeats. His work was largely instrumental in enabling the Klitties to finish in second place. In that annum he proved himself the greatest recruit that ever broke into fast company. In 1911 Russ has twenty-two wins against eleven defeats. In 1912 he scored but thirteen triumphs as against twenty-one defeats, and was knocked out of the box repeatedly. Except for his one big year with the Feds, when the emery ball saved his bacon, Russ has never redeemed the great promise of his early career in the majors.

GIANTS TAKE OPENING GAME FROM MINERS

At Seattle yesterday the home club won the opening game of the series from Butte, after an exciting 10 innings battle. Hendrix had a little the best of the pitching, but did not receive as good support as Seattle gave Schmutz, the latter winning by the score of 3 to 2.

HELPED THE BOWLER.

At a friendly cricket game played lately at Beacon Hill a young man, wishing to see as much of the game as possible, seated himself in front of the sight screen and the batsmen took their guard without seeming to notice the obstruction. The bowler proceeded to go for their wickets and got most of them, the last three in three balls, two clean bowled and one leg before. Judging from the character of the balls sent down, there is no doubt that the bowler owed much to the unconscious assistance he received from behind his bowling arm.

WON SEVERAL PRIZES.

Among those noticed enjoying the swimming at the Gorge this year is W. T. Stanyon, the originator of the swim from James Bay to the Gorge bridge. Besides being the winner of this race in 1912, Stanyon has swum three times through London, from Richmond to Blackfriars bridge, for the Weekly Dispatch S. C. and was also winner of a seven-mile race in the mouth of the Humber. Mr. Stanyon is the holder of the award of merit of the Royal Life Saving Society.

FREDDY WELSH WILL LIKELY TOUR CANADA

Harry Pollock, manager of Freddie Welsh, the champion lightweight of the world, is now arranging a tour of Canada with Welsh. He will box in the majority of the cities and in each place will donate a portion of the amount received by him to the Red Cross and Patriotic funds. Besides giving exhibitions of a bout with local men, Welsh will carry with him a film of the fight in which he won from Willie Ritchie.

COAST TENNIS MATCHES GO TO YOUNGSTERS

Del Monte, Cal., June 20.—Youth started yesterday on the Del Monte courts in the championship struggle in the Pacific States tennis tournament. The morning of the third day's play was featured by the long-drawn-out match between Miss Laura Herrons, of Palo Alto, and Miss Marjorie Wale, of San Francisco, which was won by the former 10-8, 1-6. Miss Marjorie Thorne, of San Francisco, continued her sensational play of the two preceding days by defeating easily Miss P. Wirtner, of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-0.

Elmer Griffin, national doubles champion, showed the best tennis of the afternoon session, disposing of J. C. Rohlf, secretary of the Pacific Tennis Association, 6-6, 6-4, and another youngster, Roland Roberts, of San Francisco, defeated his townsman, J. Lewenthal, 6-2, 6-1.

"SIGHT" PLAYERS BEST.

An interesting classification of baseball players is made by Harry Howell, the former pitcher and umpire. He strikes and expounds an idea both original and attractive. It arranges players in two classes, the ordinary kind and "sight" players. The "sight" players, he says, are scarce and are the real stars. Matthewson, Cobb, McGraw—who, Howell avers, knows more baseball than any other manager in the country—are or were "sight" players. They are that because when a play is being made or is about to be made they can take one sweeping sight of the field and know just what to do. One comprehensive glance and they can turn their backs and know the next move to make.

JOHNNY ERTL WINS.

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.—Johnny Ertle, of St. Paul, bantamweight champion, had the better of Johnny Ritchie, of Chicago, in a 12-round bout. Ertle clearly outboxed his opponent. The men weighed 116 pounds at 3 o'clock.

PREMIER'S FIRM ACTING

Pacific Great Eastern Railway Appeal Being Argued by Two of Mr. Bowser's Legal Partners.

There is a case being argued to-day in the court of appeal in which the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company is interested, and in it the premier's legal firm is engaged.

This is the appeal of the company against the judgment of Mr. Justice Murphy ordering it to pay to Hayes and Creery, the plaintiffs in an action against it, the sum of $5,000 for property which it had purchased from the In-connection with the construction of the line.

The company, before the date the money was due, paid it to the late W. R. Arnold and it went into the Dominion Trust coffers and never reached the vendors. They sued and set up the plea that as the company had paid in the money before it was due and without getting a conveyance contemporaneously, as was agreed should be done, there had been no payment to them, and that in any event payment since it was not a payment.

The appeal is being argued yesterday afternoon and to-day by Robt. L. Reid, K.C., and W. B. A. Ritchie, K.C., of Bowser, Reid & Wallbridge, for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company, and John Hogg, for the plaintiffs-respondents.

POLITICAL NOTES

Esquimalt Liberals meet this evening in Jones hall, Esquimalt road, opposite the Canteen grounds.

There were about ten thousand names removed from the voters' lists in Vancouver during the recent revision, which lasted for several weeks, and two thousand new names were added.

A short-sleeved convention is to be held to-night in Cranbrook, where the late member, T. D. Caven, is felt not to be the strong candidate that is necessary to meet Dr. J. H. King, the former member for the constituency and Liberal candidate for the general election.

The premier, Hon. William Mansson and his party are at Hazelton to-day and have been reported in the Conservative press as having a royal reception on the way there.

The city council last evening decided that the officials interested should meet the promoters of the Cameron-Genoa Mills Shipbuilders, Ltd., to-day, with regard to the modifications they desire in the building by-law in vessels at a site leased from the government south of the Point Elicke bridge.

The Merritt Herald has this to say of the prohibition measure and the premier in its editorial columns in its last issue: "Immediately prior to the passage of the prohibition measure the prohibitionists of the province were patting themselves on the back that they had put one over on the premier; that they had won the fight for a fair and honest digestion of the liquor business."

A GREAT GENIUS BORN OF THE WAR
From the Toronto Mail and Empire.

Undoubtedly the greatest genius that has been discovered since the beginning of the war is Louis Raemaekers, the Dutch cartoonist.

It would be true to say that not only has Raemaekers come to light since the beginning of the war, but that he has been born of the war.

Though his mother was a German, he hated and feared the Germans ever since his boyhood.

As he says himself, his work changed brusquely at the beginning of the war. "I know the Germans; that is why I can draw them."

Raemaekers went to London, and to Paris, where he was feted. The mere announcement of his presence on an afternoon has filled the Trocadero and Queen's hall with cheering thousands.

Dr. X was a man who took his profession seriously, and he had an immense practice. What annoyed him was to be sought for by fussy women to treat the most trifling ailments.

SAW SMALL PART OF FRENCH ORGANIZATION

Correspondent Present When M. Painleve Visited the Tenth Army Corps

London, June 20.—A correspondent of the Associated Press sends the following from the headquarters of the Tenth French Army Corps:

General Antoine, commander of the Tenth Army Corps, was heading over a military map at his headquarters when M. Painleve, a member of the French cabinet, was announced. General de Castelnau, commanding the eastern front, had invited the minister to visit the several corps headquarters near Verdun, and had authorized me as a representative of the Associated Press to accompany the minister. Two of General de Castelnau's personal staff, Major Cabut and Lieut. Lagulotte, acted as escorts to the party, and in the circuit of several hundred kilometers three army corps headquarters were visited—the Tenth Army Corps under General Antoine, the Fifth Army Corps under General Helouin, and the Third Army Corps under General Humbert.

It was the first day of this trip of inspection, made under most favorable auspices, designed to show the cabinet officer the exact condition of affairs on the fighting line—the offensive and defensive organization, the morale of the men, the condition of supplies and equipment, the trench warfare and the actual fighting on the front. M. Painleve, besides being a member of the cabinet, had taken a leading part in the debates of the Chamber of Deputies on questions relating to the military campaign, and this was to let him see at first hand just how that campaign was being conducted.

Bare Headquarters.

The commander of the Tenth Army Corps and the cabinet officers exchanged cordial greetings. General Antoine is a man of commanding presence, tall and athletic, a little beyond middle age, with broad face and iron gray hair and moustache. He was in light-blue service uniform, with high boots and spurs, the three stars on the sleeve indicating his high rank. Here in his headquarters the surroundings were plain to the point of bareness. The room was small and the floor bare. A rough pine table was in the middle, with a detailed map stretched out, which General Antoine had been studying. Other maps and photographs of sectors, trenches and various divisions of the works, were on the wall, and these, with a few pine chairs, made up the furnishings of the corps headquarters, which is pushing forward the supplies to Verdun and the fighting front.

M. Painleve was much interested in the large charts showing in detail the layout of the fighting and reserve forces, and General Antoine, standing before the chart, pointed out the main points—Verdun off to the right, then the army corps massed to the west, and then General Antoinette corps doing the work of preparation and forwarding, as well as guarding a considerable sector of the front.

Photographs.

"The photographs show the field better," said the general, leading the way to a large room adjoining.

A score of officers were at work here, sorting photographs, developing them and fitting them together into huge panoramic views showing every road and trench and tree. These photographs were taken from the clouds by aviators, and now and then an aviator came in with the negatives just taken of their section. The whole war-zone was laid out in small squares, the aviators minutely photographing each square, and then the squares were fitted together like a jig-saw puzzle, making a complete picture of the whole zone. When the edge of a square was too close to a German battery for the aviator to reach in safety, the photograph was taken by a camera lashed to a high pole and held above a trench.

These last, the trench pictures, presented a gruesome scene of the havoc and desolation where the batteries were doing the worst work—the ground swept of trees and foliage, littered with debris, and a few twisted trunks extending their distorted arms.

Through the Camp.

General Antoine now turned outside, and with a group of staff officers led the way through the mazes of the vast camp. Such a scene of varied and intense activity! It fairly throbbled as the visitors passed along. Wagons, wagons, wagons, stretching away in unending procession for miles ahead and behind. A great cloud of dust hung over this cavalcade, and the green fields were filled with coils of smoke strained along, keeping the ranks close together. Every conceivable sort of war stores was in this moving train—boxes and barrels and bales of food for men and animals; huge wine casks set on end, two to a wagon; ordnance carts piled high with boxes of shells; crates with ugly-looking quick-firing guns, and vans loaded with coils of barbed wire and with sharp-pointed stakes used in the trenches and chevrons.

"And this goes on night and day," said Major Camut. "Yes, it is busiest at night near the front, for the moving is dangerous in the daytime, so that the last laps, near the fighting line, start at dusk and go steadily through the night."

Fields Busy, Too.

And besides the activity of the highway, the fields alongside were equally busy. Here a cavalry camp was posted, and horses were tethered, not by hundreds, but by thousands. At one side a spur of railroad had been run to a camp depot, and there the freight cars were unloading supplies and the army vans were carrying them forward. Soldiers and camp followers and pack animals were working at their insupportable occupations. One of these groups, massed at a crossroad, looked like a market-place in Jerusalem, with all races and languages—Africans from Algeria and mongrel Moors from the borders of Tunisia and Morocco, Senegalese as black as coal, and yellow-faced Anamites; most of these French colonials in fez and souvane outfit, along with the French poilus in their gray-blue uniforms, soiled and grimy, and some of the French territorialists in the old-time red and blue uniform with baggy trousers.

The most striking thing in this great field of activity was the regularity with which it was all going on, suggesting a perfection and sureness of organization. There was no confusion, and this tremendous machinery of warfare was running with the precision and smoothness of the delicate works of a watch.

Living Quarters.

General Antoine and M. Painleve now turned off to the living quarters. The big barracks stretched for half a mile ahead—substantial temporary one-story structures of corrugated iron with an inner double sheathing of heavy paper felt. There was a blast of bugles and a ruffle of drums, and the commanding general and the minister. And as the sharp notes sounded, hundreds of French soldiers—the poilus—who were camped along the route, chatting in groups, sitting at rough benches, and doing their hundreds of little camp duties, sprang to attention and stood there like statues as the general passed by. Those with guns brought their pieces sharply to present arms, while most of the poilus, taken unawares in their rough-and-ready garb, were without arms and saluted with the right hand at the captain.

It was a striking scene, those poilus standing rigid, not in regular array, but scattered and massed for half a mile along a dusty battle-route, some on the road, others on the rising slopes, and their commanding officer passing among them. The general paused as we neared one group of twenty grimy soldiers ranged beside a field kitchen, the ovens smoking and giving off an odor of soldier rations.

About Food.

"Are the men content with the food?" asked the general, halting and addressing by name one of the poilus.

"Yes, my general," answered the poilu, his face beaming.

"And the rice—do the men like it?" queried the general.

"No, my general, they will not eat it."

The poilus was very definite in condemning the rice portion of the ration, and had no hesitation in expressing this disapproval to the general. General Antoine asked many other questions as to the food, and was answered in the same frank and smiling way.

This was a typical encounter between an army corps and a plain French poilu, and it showed the inherent democracy of the French army, the real comradeship between officers and men. Here was a corps commander addressing a private soldier familiarly by name, and knowing the name of this one man in 40,000 encountered by hazard, for they say General Antoine knows every man by name in his corps.

Spic and Span.

Entering the barracks, the poilus were ranged at attention alongside their long lines of bunks. Everything was spic and span; floors clean, bed-clothes piled neatly, mattresses arranged in an orderly arrangement in the huge eating quarters, kitchens and elsewhere. Outside the barracks, on the sloping terrace, the poilus had planted artistic flower beds, with huge letters in flowers spelling Joffre, Castelnau, Antoine and the names of other commanders. A huge stock of shells rose among these flowers, and the poilus had stowed some of these monster shells on end with a bunch of flowers and a French flag in the nose of the projectiles.

General Antoine took a personal interest in the "depot d'eclopes," as it is called—an extensive organization run by slightly wounded men. General Antoine originated the idea and it has spread all through the army, these depots back of the front doing scores of helpful little duties for the men on the firing line. Here there was an immense laundry turning out a wash of 10,000 pieces.

Helps the Fighters.

"It helps the man in the trench to have a clean shirt," said General Antoine as he showed the stocks of flannel shirts about to be returned to the men in front.

There were kitchen gardens for fresh vegetables, forges for mending trench tools, armories for cleansing guns, a candle factory and innumerable other activities, all run by soldiers who had lost a finger or the edge of an ear, or had some other slight wound temporarily incapacitating them.

BRIDGE AT GOLDEN WRECKED BY FLOOD

Kicking Horse River Raging Torrent; Trains Stalled; Houses Swamped

Golden, June 20.—As if bent upon demonic fury, Kicking Horse river during the past forty-eight hours played out havoc with railroad traffic, carried out here south span of the railroad and traffic bridge, flooded a large area of the south side and threatens to carry out the steel bridge of the Kootenay Central.

All night crews battled with the flood, honors being divided. The worst damage at Golden is the wrecking of the bridge and the flooding of a number of residences.

Owing to the forming of a big raft across the south viaduct by the wrecked bridge, it became necessary late yesterday to cut away a span, as the backwaters from the jam caused an overflow on the north side, flooding several buildings, including the customs house.

A number of small creeks poured thousands of drift logs into the river, and these formed against the piers of three bridges, necessitating the use of dynamite at frequent intervals throughout the day and night.

Eastbound trains have been stalled here since noon yesterday. Reports from the district between here and Field indicate it may be a week before traffic is resumed. Last night the large steel bridge east of Palliser was damaged so badly that no trains could cross. The river carried out the cribbing fills in Kicking Horse canyon.

To the west heavy floods in the Columbia tributary streams demoralized traffic. At Bear Creek old houses swept from their foundations menaced bridges and had to be burned and dynamited.

The Kootenay Central line will be tied up many weeks, as well as the Grand-Windermere automobile road. Branches have gone out along the auto-mobil road and the K. C. line is flooded and washed out in numerous places.

The water last night tore out part of the fill of the north approach to the K. C. steel bridge at Golden.

Cool weather and the cessation of rain last night somewhat relieved the situation, but there is yet much snow to melt, and the situation still is problematic.

SAILORS OF SEACONNET REPORT IN LONDON

London, June 20.—The officers and crew of the steamship Seaconnet, which went ashore on the Selsey sands on Sunday following an exterior explosion, reported at the American consulate today. They reaffirmed that the steamship had sustained her damage as the result of an explosion from without, but were unable to say whether a mine or a submarine was responsible, although the marine authorities at Yarmouth had expressed the belief from an examination of portions of metal found in the hull of the vessel that a torpedo had done the damage.

GERMAN IS DETAINED AT MEXICAN BORDER

El Paso, June 20.—Frederick Griese, a German banker of Mexico, was under detention by agents of the department of justice here today, charged with violation of the United States neutrality laws. Griese was prevented last night from crossing into Mexico.

El Paso, June 20.—Agents of the department of justice are maintaining secrecy regarding the exact allegations against Griese, a German banker who was stopped at the border as he was about to enter Mexico. It is said, however, that his detention is the outcome of various reports regarding the spreading of anti-American propaganda in Mexico. He spent last night in jail but was released today. Meantime Washington has been notified.

REPORTED OBREGON MEXICAN DICTATOR

Galveston, June 20.—Private cablegrams from Vera Cruz report that General Obregon has imprisoned Provisional President Carranza and declared himself dictator of Mexico.

W. F. CARROLL ARRESTED.

Sydney, N. S., June 20.—On the eve of the provincial elections W. F. Carroll, M. P. for Cape Breton South, was placed under arrest by order of the military authorities on a charge of being absent from duty without leave. Mr. Carroll is a private in the 18th Nova Scotia Highlanders and left the camp at Aldershot without leave.

PERSHING'S FORCE MAY BE FIGHTING SHORTLY

Columbus, N. M., June 20.—American and Carranza troops are in close proximity south of Namiqualpa, with the Mexicans taking a provocative attitude, according to reports reaching here today from the front. Dispatches received here were interpreted as meaning that there might be a clash in the immediate future, although Brig-General Pershing is said to be making every effort to avoid a conflict.

ARREDONDO DID NOT CALL ON LANSING

Washington, June 20.—Eusebio Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador-designate, late today cancelled an engagement he had to call on Secretary Lansing. No explanation was offered at the embassy.

MEXICAN SHOT.

Brownwood, Tex., June 20.—Geronimo Lerma, a Mexican suspected of assaulting with a knife Mrs. W. U. Kuykendall while she slept here early today, was found later by a posse about ten miles from here, and immediately shot to death.

UNDERLYING TONE FIRM AND STRONG

Issues on Victoria Market Have Moderate Rally at Morning Session Call

The underlying strain of firmness detected on this morning, and with a cessation of liquidation in standard securities outside, based on a better outlook, prices locally were more susceptible to buying pressure. Incoming support, however, was of meagre proportions and opportunity is still left the majority of issues to react to their former levels of a few weeks back.

The Showstern Mining Company is to be discontinued and in exchange for new stock, share for share, the Showstern Consolidated Mining Company will come into being. Indications point to the subscription being a success and to the goodwill of the old stockholders as in full agreement with the proposition.

MODERATE RALLY IN STREET SECURITIES

While Industrials Suggested Topheavy Condition Liquidation Was Arrested

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

New York, July 20.—In many directions betterment was recorded. The critical state of American relations with Mexico were little spoken of about today and prices were free to rally a little. The top heavy condition in the long interest of industrials was apparent. Nevertheless, if industrial conditions were normal, that is, if productive capacity were employed only to the exclusion of, say, 80 or 85 per cent, of maximum, then in a measure it might be concluded the intervention in Mexico would be bullish on some of the shares of manufacturing concerns, but when it is considered that production is now at high tide, it seems a reasonable assumption that contracts for domestic account can be filled only at the expense of export business. Then, too, public sentiment would be much against the payment by the American government of fancy prices for munitions, and it is quite probable that the United States would claim for itself products otherwise intended for export.

IN FINAL TRADING MARKET WAS STRONG

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

Chicago, June 20.—Bulls in wheat did not enjoy the full privileges of the session. The previous close gave hints of the market's doing better to-day and a substantial upturn would have looked unreasonable to a large following. Albert, offerings were encountered on the upturn and once or twice a disposition to weakness was clearly shown. In latter trading the market assumed a southerly aspect and met with good buying. Strength of corn was helpful to buyers of the leading cereal.

CHINESE LOTTERY CASES IN COURT

Paraphernalia Seized on Friday is Explained in Three Prosecutions

The Chinese lottery cases are proceeding in the city police court to-day, and as the defence prefers the charges to go before a higher court, special attention is being given to get the exhibits in with great care, with a full description of how the passion for play among white and yellow men being irrefragable, the lottery keeper manages to draw a large number of people to his quarters.

The charges against three alleged keepers are being taken separately perforce, as three separate raids were made by the police on Friday evening. The exhibits are much the same, though one or two innocent looking accessories of the ordinary room are turned to account in a way which would surprise the novice. A clock was going set to indicate the hour at which the lottery would be drawn, while on the back a pictorial calendar of the Japan S. S. lines was a list of the lotteries by name, and the hours of drawing.

R. C. Lewis is defending the accused. The men found in the rooms, except the three accused, have been discharged from custody, on the ground that they were merely onlookers, and were not in possession of tickets. The paraphernalia on exhibition in court is so complete, with special rubber stamps, etc., that the business must be extensive to warrant the outlay.

The places raided on Friday by a squad of police are all in the rear of Cormorant street houses, and Inspector Heatley and Sergt. Fry, with the constables, are describing what was the situation when they walked in unexpectedly with a search warrant soon after midnight, surprising Chinese and white men (both soldiers and civilians). The mysterious hieroglyphics on this paper, marked in ink, or punched on completion of the lottery, were spread on the counters.

be gladly received by the undersigned. This chair will be a great boon to the soldiers during their sojourn at the hospital, and it is hoped that not many more of these delightful summer days will pass before the chair becomes the property of the hospital. The chair is the most modern contrivance of its kind, can be easily operated and is a delight to the invalid who desires to move about in the fresh air. Small contributions will be gratefully received. Help, good, friends, to put this splendid convenience at the disposal of our injured soldier boys. A subscription list will be found at the Bantams' office, and contributions may be dropped in the box attached to the chair.

COMPANY OF 103RD LOCATED AT SIDNEY

Two Trains Conveyed Men to Scene of Island Camp to Prepare for Battalions

One company of the 103rd Battalion this morning left Victoria for Sidney to take up permanent quarters there and assist in construction of the summer military camp to which the 103rd and the 143rd of this city and the Highlanders from Vancouver are to go for the summer. Yesterday afternoon the 103rd sent out a platoon to prepare quarters for the company which went out this morning. The three other companies of the 103rd are following the usual company drill and lectures at the Willows camp pending their march to Sidney early next week. It is understood that the camp will be ready on Monday, by which time the water system will have been established. The camp is to be located in the nearest field to Sidney, on the left hand side of the road down to the township. The field is about one and a half miles from the B. C. Electric Company's station and the equipment for the battalions is to be sent over the B. C. E. R. interurban and moved from there to the camp.

This morning the company of the 103rd came to the city in street cars and transferred from these to two large interurban cars at the city depot, Douglas and Pandora streets. The soldiers carried full field equipment.

Considerable opposition is made by military men to moving from Victoria. They claim that the rifle range is eight or ten miles from Sidney camp and that the facilities for camping there are inferior to those in the barracks at the Willows and at Beacon Hill. They understand that the tents are to be without board floors and that the proposed training ground, Meadlands Park, is not as good as the fields adjacent to the Willows where preparations have been made for bayonet fighting instruction and also a system of serviceable trenches that are of great training value. They also oppose the move on account of the unsatisfactory state of conditions should there be any heavy rain. It is said that the camp was proposed to Colonel Ogilvie when he was D. O. C. and that he on five occasions refused to accept it as a brigade camp.

WOULD UTILIZE LAKE WATERSHED FOR PARK

Council Appoints Committee to Examine Conditions at Elk Lake

The following resolution, introduced by Alderman Todd, was adopted in city council last evening:

"Whereas at Elk Lake the city has an area of land and water which naturally is well suited for outings and summer recreation;

"And whereas under the existing conditions no part of Victoria's water supply is taken from the lake;

"Be it resolved that a committee of three aldermen and the water commissioner be appointed to investigate the matter and report back to the council any recommendations they may see fit to make concerning the outing and recreation possibilities either now available or capable of immediate and inexpensive development."

The alderman explained the objects he had in view in making some service of the large area of land and water for recreation purposes by the citizens, until such time as eventually the lake is used again for irrigation or other purposes.

Alderman Dilworth pointed out they would be treading on delicate ground, and as soon as the city diverted the watershed to other objects than the original one, their rights might be jeopardized thereby.

Alderman Walker foresaw problems with regard to transportation to Elk Lake. At present the city had the land leased, and was securing a revenue from it.

Alderman Porter approved of the idea of an investigation into the park facilities of the watershed, but he did not agree that any appropriation could be made.

Alderman McNeill deprecated the expenditure of money, but supported the idea of obtaining information.

Alderman Johns thought the council might well plant trees from the Beacon Hill nursery at the lake, looking to the future. It would not affect the lease.

Alderman Dilworth said last year an effort had been made to plant ash trees, but had been defeated in council, on account of the expense.

In replying, Alderman Todd observed that the ultimate destiny of the lake watershed was a recreation park, though it might not come yet.

The committee, composed of Alderman Todd, Peden and Dilworth, was then appointed.

The council went on record against changing the rate of wages for outside labor, as sought by the Trades and Labor council recently, the deputation having asked for a restoration of the old minimum wage.

The council determined to deal with the proposal of the Kelowna Board of Trade to increase the payments on delinquent taxes to 15 per cent, by stating that the council has the matter in hand, and will consider it further. The subject desired by the board is closely analogous to that for the sale of delinquency certificates before the convention of the Union of B. C. Municipalities last fall at Chilliwack, under which the delinquent lots instead of being auctioned off at a tax sale, are sold under certificate for specified periods.

ALEXANDRA ROSE DAY

More Orders for Roses Will Be Welcomed; Fete at Government House on Thursday Evening.

In connection with the Alexandra Rose Day on Thursday, the Alexandra Club, where the workers have been busy for weeks past making roses, will be thrown open to the public for luncheon between noon and 2 o'clock. In the afternoon tea will be served in the ballroom, and dancing will take place for any who wish to indulge in the pastime. There will be a small charge.

Apart from the general event, the sale of roses in aid of the local charities by "rose maidens" who will be stationed at various points about the downtown streets during the day, the big feature of the celebration is to take place in the evening. Through the courtesy of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Barnard, Government House, and its beautiful grounds will be thrown open to the public between the hours of 7.30 and 10.30. The only things necessary to make the occasion a success are warm weather and good patronage, as the beautiful gardens and spacious reception room will afford ample room for hundreds of visitors. Ice cream and refreshments may be procured. The principal part of the programme is to consist of a cafe chantant in the ballroom, where the song-writers (see Miss Kathleen Dunsmuir) and Mrs. R. H. Pooley, assisted by a number of well-known local artists, will give an entertainment. A band has been procured to play in the grounds at Government House during the evening, and as the gardens are to be illuminated they are certain to prove a big attraction.

The committee and a corps of workers were active until late last evening and again to-day manufacturing the pretty artificial roses which are being used for decorating the shop windows, motor-cars, etc. Further orders are for the ornate A's (which stand about 2 1/2 in. high), for sprays, bunches of buds, etc., will be gladly received. All the proceeds are to be devoted, together with the collections on Thursday, to the eight charitable institutions announced in Saturday's Times as the beneficiaries of the undertaking.

The public, therefore, is urged to give its hearty support in every way and make the enterprise as successful as possible.

HAVE YOU A BAD SORE?

If so, remember these facts—Zam-Buk is by far the most widely used balm in Canada! Why has it become so popular? Because it heals sores, cures skin diseases, and does what is claimed for it. Why not let it heal your sore?

Remember that Zam-Buk is altogether different to the ordinary ointments. Most of these consist of animal fats. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal fat, or any mineral matter. It is absolutely herbal.

Remember that Zam-Buk is at the same time healing, soothing, and anti-septic. Kills poison instantly, and all harmful germs. It is suitable alike for recent injuries and diseases, and for chronic sores, ulcers, etc. Test how different and superior Zam-Buk really is. All druggists and stores at the box. Use also Zam-Buk Soap. Relieves sunburn and prevents freckles. Best for baby's bath. 5c tablet.

SERIOUS CHARGES ARE MADE IN DOCUMENT

Capt. Worswick Files Statement Concerning Alleged Irregularities of 1911

A number of leading citizens, members of the 1911 council, officials, and persons alleged to have acted as intermediaries, are mentioned by name in a fourteen page statement forwarded by Captain W. H. Worswick to the mayor and council, with regard to the alleged irregularities in connection with paving contracts.

The communication, which had been shown by the mayor to the finance committee members yesterday afternoon, was not on the file of communications, but the mayor took it with him to council, and asked what course the council desired to be adopted.

In advising against the statement being read, and thereby technically "published," City Solicitor Hanington pointed out that the document showed proof of personal animus, and with the exception of one statement the observations were not legal evidence. In that one exception, it was the case where the "briber" was the most guilty of all—the accuser himself. Proof was lacking as to the allegations of money passing through intermediaries to the persons named in the document as receiving money, the document containing statements of certain sums passing. The charges named in the document were very grave, and instead of giving publicity, he favored an individual reading of the document by the members of the council, who could then familiarize themselves with its contents. While it was true that the writer offered to come to Victoria and substantiate the charges, if he failed to turn up, and the members of the council were attacked in libel actions, the situation would be serious. So long as Mr. Worswick remained across the line it was impossible to compel him to give evidence in a civil action.

Considerable discussion followed on receiving the advice of the city solicitor. Alderman Todd favored the circulation of copies to the aldermen, and sending a copy to the city prosecutor for examination, while Alderman Fullerton believed the better course would be to hold a private meeting after the regular session to discuss the subject.

He again received an assurance from the mayor that neither Alderman Peden nor his name were mentioned in the document. Alderman Fullerton indicated that the council would be unwise to proceed with the matter in a way which would be construed by the public as endeavoring to cover the question up.

Alderman Cameron deprecated adding to the opportunities of publicity by issuing copies to each alderman. However, it was decided to do so before next Monday, and to consider the matter further at that session.

IMPERIAL BANK GETS JUDGMENT ON NOTES

Hon. W. R. Ross and John R. Pollock Are Ordered to Redeem Paper Given by Them

Judgment was rendered yesterday afternoon by Mr. Justice Murphy in the suit of the Imperial Bank of Canada against Hon. W. R. Ross, minister of lands, T. H. Whalen and John R. Pollock, on notes given in connection with the business conducted by Whalen and his brother, Con. L. Whalen, in the Napanee hotel, Fernie.

The minister of lands was sued for $3,490.62 on a note made on May 15, 1914, to the Imperial Bank and dishonored on the date it fell due, October 13, 1915. The amount for which Whalen was sued was $11,482.99. In giving judgment his lordship says:

"Consideration has led me to conclude that it is unnecessary to decide the matter of the legality of the mortgages given to Ross. I find the bargain made at Fernie on May 15, 1914, to have been: Whalen to convey the hotel property to Ross, subject to the two Ross mortgages and to the Pollock mortgage; Ross to convey the property to Pollock, subject to the same incumbrances; Whalen to give a note to the bank for the total of $16,965.54; the bank to advance $3,490.62 to be used to satisfy certain debts of Whalen, the balance to be retained by Whalen; Ross to give a note to the bank for this $3,159; Pollock, in consideration of the conveyance to him subject to the incumbrances mentioned, and of the further advance of $3,159, and of possession by Ross and himself of the property, to give a note to Ross for the aggregate of the two notes above mentioned, viz., $19,245.44; Ross to endorse this and hand it to the bank; Ross to allow Whalen to redeem within twelve months despite the absolute conveyance, on Whalen paying the amount of this last note, and other payments set out in Exhibit 23; Pollock to agree that this agreement by Ross be binding on him; Whalen to give possession to Ross and Pollock; Pollock to have the real control of the property."

"This bargain was actually carried out, and all the documents signed and delivered and all moneys paid over, and possession given to Ross and Pollock. Within a day or two Pollock, fearing that his mortgage would merge if he acted on the conveyance—requested that Ross forward a power of attorney to enable the same bargain to be carried out in such a way as would prevent the merger question arising. The method apparently (though in my view this is immaterial) was that Pollock assign his mortgage to the bank, and then take a new deed subsequent in date from Ross. This deed was proffered, but by this time Pollock had repented of his bargain and was looking for a way out, and he refused it. He still, however, continued to control the property—Ross doing whatever he requested."

"As a side light on the case, it is to be observed that what were apparently notarial acknowledgments attached to the conveyance Ross to Pollock, and the assignment Pollock to the bank, have been torn off; see Exhibits 25 and 41. Pollock having taken this stand Ross apparently arranged with Whalen that Ross might convey to some other person, and the alterations in Exhibit 25 were made. This was done without consulting the bank, and cannot be held in any way to alter the concluded and executed bargain of May 15, 1914, in so far as the bank is concerned."

"This being my view of the facts, I fail to see how the question of the validity of the mortgages arises in this action. Pollock's consideration for executing the note was the conveyance by Ross, subject to the three mortgages on the property to him, and the further advance by the bank of the $3,159 to get Whalen out, and the giving up of possession by Whalen to Ross and himself. He received this consideration. It may be he would not have made the bargain assuming the Ross mortgages are void, and further assuming he had known such to be the fact, but the court is not concerned with that. No representations of any kind, innocent or fraudulent, respecting the mortgages were made to him, and no such case was raised on the pleadings. Though I do not think the principle necessary to the decision, it is clear law, apparently, that taking a void mortgage does not prevent a bank from doing for the loan, as decided in R. v. La Caisse d'Economie, 24 S. C. 405.

"On the claim by Ross for indemnity, I can find nothing in the evidence proving any such contract to have been made, or even discussed."

"Judgment for plaintiffs against Ross and Pollock as claimed, with costs. Witness fees of Fisher and Phipps to be allowed to plaintiffs."

The counsel engaged in the case were S. S. Taylor, K. C., Vancouver, and W. H. Harris, Nelson, for the Imperial Bank; M. A. Macdonald and H. W. Herchert for Pollock, and H. W. R. Moore for Ross.

NEW PRINCIPAL NAMED

Head of Quadra Street School is Appointed by School Board.

The city school board last evening appointed Thomas Stewart, a graduate of Durham University, and a first assistant at the Boys' Central school, as principal of the Quadra street school. No appointment will be made to the vacant principalship of the High school for some little time, there being nine applications for the position.

Suggestions with regard to economy in the schools were made in a supplementary report from the board's committee on retrenchment, which has been sitting for some time.

"The finance statement showed that the expenditure on public schools this year to date is $38,525.55, made up of: Salaries for day schools, $22,977.75; salaries for night schools, $12,749.75; other expenses, $2,849.80. The estimates for the whole year were: Day salaries, $176,832.20; salaries for night schools, $1,467.80; other expenses, $15,572. May salaries amounted to $14,499.10, and other expenses, $1,572.93.

The superintendent of education wrote objecting to the non-payment of the July salary to Walter Brown, who recently resigned from the South Park school staff to take a commission with the 11th C. M. R. He claimed that the board had taken a non-patriotic stand, and proceeded: "In fact I would further state that I think the time has arrived when every school board in this province should give notice to male teachers of military age, who are medically fit, that their services are no longer required. The various boards could easily fill the positions with competent women teachers."

The finance committee of the board was deputed to examine into the matter further.

ROTARY CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN JULY

Arrangements Being Completed to Have Victoria Club Represented by F. Higgins

Arrangements are practically complete for sending Frank Higgins, past president of the Victoria Rotary Club, to Cincinnati as the delegate to the international convention which will be held there July 16 to 20. Although only a little over two years old, the Victoria club has established itself as one of the progressive, and has sent delegates to all the prominent conventions of Rotary clubs on this continent since it was established.

The Cincinnati convention will begin with a reception on Sunday, July 16, in the ballroom of the Hotel Gibson. On Monday the delegates will attend model luncheons downtown, where it is to be shown how Rotary luncheons best can be conducted. There will be a Rotary parade at night, headed by the delegations contesting for the 1917 convention, and following this there will be a visit to the zoological gardens. Twelve bands will provide music while the visitors enjoy a watermelon feast at the invitation of the Georgia Rotary Club, whose members will provide the melons, bringing them from their own state. The remainder of the evening will be occupied in dancing and looking at fireworks.

On Tuesday the delegates will attend trade and professional luncheons and might attend a musical festival at the auditorium, which has a seating capacity for 1,900. On Wednesday there will be an old-fashioned Kentucky barbecue and barbeque to be followed by an athletic meeting. At night there will be a summer carnival in honor of the visitors. On Thursday night the annual grand ball will be held.

These enjoyable features are to be interspersed with business meetings during the four days. The programme for these is being arranged. As fast as the names of attending delegates are received, they are being allotted their business duties for the convention.

Mr. Higgins is to open the convention with a speech on Publicity and Information. On Wednesday he will address the convention on "Self Service and Not Selfish Service." He also has been appointed chairman of the attorneys' round table and has sent down to Cincinnati a list of subjects for discussion by this section.

Harold John Russell, Whose Death Occurred Yesterday, Was Well-Known in City and District.

The death occurred yesterday afternoon of Harold John Russell, son of J. J. Russell, secretary of the S.P.C.A. The deceased, who passed away at the family residence, 1415 Vining street, was very well known in the city and district. A native of Eastbourne, England, he was within two months of celebrating his thirty-third birthday. He came to Victoria with his parents when he was four years old, and received his education in the local public schools. Later he became connected with the surveyors' department in the city hall, but for the last few years had been in very poor health and unable to continue at his post. Three years ago he went to Australia in the hope of benefiting his health, but the trip was unsuccessful in its purpose. Three survive besides the parents—three sisters: Mrs. G. W. Allison and Mrs. G. T. Hillier, of Victoria; and Mrs. J. Adams, of Nebraska.
